CONFESSED MURDER Says Father Attacked Him Before Death

A first degree murder charge was to be filed in Fairfield-co courts Tuesday by Prosecuting Attorney Cunningham against Sisco Carper, 18, Whisler youth, who Monday morning confessed to the murder of his father, Harvey Carper, 55. It is expected the young Carper will base his defense on self-defense, claiming in his confession to Sheriff Gale Sessler of Lancaster that he shot his father after his life had been threatened with a shotgun and then with a knife.

Possibility that the murder might have occurred in Pickaway or Ross counties, the body then being taken to Fairfield-co where it was found, was discussed Monday but in the youth's confession he stated that he had killed his father, near the spot where the body was found in Fairfield-co eight miles east of the Carper home at Whisler.

TWO ARE RELEASED

Young Carper after confessing his crime to Fairfield-co officials said that his father had always mistreated his family and at one time struck Golden Carper, 20, another son, on the head so hard that he was forced to undergo treatment in a hospital. The older Carper boy and a brother-in-law William Lewis Day, were released from custody of Fairfield officials following the confession.

According to young Carper, his father asked him to go hunting on Aug. 4th, the day of the murder, and after obtaining shells at Laurelville the two drove to the woods where the body was found one week later. There the older Carper got out and saying that it seemed a good place for squirrels, suggested driving in. His son wanted to remain in the machine while he hunted, but the father would not go alone, according to the confession.

GRABBED WEAPON

The two went up the hollow then, the youth says, his father quarreling with him and cursing him because he walked behind instead of ahead. Before they had gone very far, the father turned on him and upbraided him further and then pointed the shotgun at him when the youth started back. He grabbed the weapon, young Carper says, and then knocked out on his father's hand a knife which he had also drawn. His father turned to grab a rock and he fired at him, according to the youth's confession.

After shooting his father young Carper took ten dollars, the only contents of the slain man's pockets, he said. The knife and shells he threw into the woods. Then he returned home by the same route.

The body when found was badly mutilated by animals, probably by dogs, the arms being torn off.

The youth told his brothers and sister that he had left his father at Chillicothe from whence Mr. Carper had departed for Huntington, W. Va. As their father was in the habit of leaving on such trips without notice they did not suspect any falsehood.

ESTABLISHED ALIBI

Later the young slayer came to the conclusion that he could establish an alibi and strengthen his story by driving to Huntington. He left Aug. 5th, taking with him his chum Hunt, and returned three days later. The last day they were

WORLD WAR VET IS DEAD

Lloyd Vale, 31, Member of Rainbow Division, Passes Away Monday...

Lloyd Vale, aged 31, World War veteran and a member of the Rainbow division, died at his home, on Haywood-ave, Monday at 2 p. m. Complications after an 18 months illness caused his demise.

He was born here March 26, 1900, the son of Charles of Lucy Alice Vincent Vale. He enlisted in the 166th regiment and served through the war.

Mr. Vale's war record shows that he enlisted here on July 31, 1917, giving his age as 18 years and three months. He was sent to the 166th regiment and fought in a number of important battles, including those of Champagne, Marne, Aisne-Marne, St. Mihiel, and the Meuse-Argonne. He was a member of the American Expeditionary Forces from Oct. 1, 1917 to April 5, 1919. He was honorably discharged as a private April 25, 1919.

He was married Nov. 7, 1921, to Laura Saunders, who with the following children, Anna Louise, Estella May and Bertha Lorraine, all at home, survive him. A half-sister, Mrs. Bertha Hart of Stoutsville, also survives.

Funeral services will be held on Wednesday at 2:30 p. m., at the North End Mission church, Rev. Williams officiating. Interment will be in Forest cemetery by M. S. Rinehart.

ASHVILLE MAN IS GIVEN PEN TERM

Earl Smiley, 44, of Ashville, was sentenced to the Ohio penitentiary Monday by Judge Robert P. Duncan after pleading guilty to burglarizing the Johnson auto store, 149 W. Lafayette-st., Columbus. Judge Duncan recommended the man serve a year.

Last week Harry L. Scott indicted jointly with Smiley was freed when the indictment against him was nolle.

Smiley had accused Scott of being his accomplice in the robbery later telling Scott's attorney that Scott was not with him. Because of Smiley's conflicting stories the case was dismissed.

RUMOR DEMPSEY TO MARRY AGAIN

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Oct. 20.—While Nevada notables prepared to undertake a moose hunt into the wilds of the Jackson Hole country in Wyoming with Jack Dempsey, rumors of impending nuptials continued today to surround the former heavyweight champion.

Thousands of Dollars Worth of Goods Confiscated in Raid On Rooming House.

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Oct. 20.—A three-state burglar band was believed broken up here today with the arrest of three men and a woman and the confiscation of thousands of dollars worth of allegedly stolen goods along with an arsenal which included a suitcase laden with 200 sticks of dynamite.

The raid on the headquarters of the purported gang of thieves was staged by a squad of local police aided by Chief of Police L. E. Sherry of Upper Sandusky, Ohio, and Sheriff L. Weatherholtz of Wyandot-co.

Those arrested in the spectacular raid were Lewis Short, 30, of Huntington, Doris Bennett, 23, who said she was from Walburn, Mich., Harry M. Myers, 34, and James Hartley, 30, both of whom gave Detroit, Mich., as their addresses.

SECOND WOMAN HELD

A second woman, who is believed to be connected with the burglar band, is under arrest at Akron, Ohio, according to Sheriff Weatherholtz. The official declined to reveal the name of the woman.

Sheriff Weatherholtz also declared that another man is being sought as a member of the band. Short and Myers were expected to be returned to Ohio today by the Ohio authorities to answer charges in connection with the robberies of two drugstores, one in Upper Sandusky and another in Carey, O.

Huntington police said they would hold Hartley on a charge of carrying concealed weapons. The woman will be held as an accomplice in connection with the robberies.

Police officials declared that they seized from the headquarters of the alleged burglar gang two trunks and 12 suit cases bulging with kodaks, fountain pens, men's suits and overcoats, hats, women's apparel and jewelry.

Some of the hats bore the names of establishments in Detroit and Toledo. Identification marks had been removed, however, from much of the clothing.

OPERATE OVER MONTH

The apartment here, officials said, had been operated since Oct. 13, leading investigators to believe that the gang had been operating since that date.

Ohio authorities, it was said, traced the gang to this city through an automobile license number and through questioning of the woman held in Akron.

Huntington police have had the gang under surveillance since last Friday.

Efforts will be made today by Ashland, Ky., police, who are enroute here, to link the alleged burglar gang with a store robbery there last Sunday night. Huntington police meantime continued their investigations to ascertain if the band participated in any recent robberies here.

Chicago's Underworld Is Rushing To Capone's Aid

CHICAGO, Oct. 20.—With Al Capone facing "a federal rap"—possibly 17 years in prison—the Chicago underworld, of which he is the supreme dictator, is going to the front for him with coin of the realm. A "Capone fund" aggregating $50,000 a week is being raised, it was learned today.

Every speakeasy in Chicago is contributing in this manner to the fund. The Capone syndicate has slapped an extra $2 on the price of every five-gallon can of alcohol sold in the city. Some time ago the price of these five-gallon cans was "pegged" at $30. It has now jumped to $32 a can to every saloonkeeper. The $2 goes to the fund.

Twenty-five thousand five-gallon cans of alcohol are sold weekly in the Chicago metropolitan district. This means an added revenue of "fifty grand" a week which is to be used to help Capone in his fight against imprisonment and to make him as comfortable as it is possible to be in prison in the event he is forced to do a long "stretch."

The trio of detectives had gone into a rooming house on the upper west side where they had trapped a gangster trio of killers. The detectives went in with their heads up. They came out bullet-riddled on a stretcher after exchanging shot for shot at barely more than punching distance.

Enrico Battaglia, 26, former convict, shot it out until he was killed. He was wanted for his part in the cold-blooded killing of Patrolman Jerry Brosnan in Fordham hospital two years ago. Brosnan, assigned to guard a wounded prisoner, was peppered with bullets as he dozed.

The wounded detectives in the hospital today were Edward Willis, James De Ferraro and Guido Pessagno. Pessagno, with five bullet wounds, was in a critical condition.

The two companions of the slain gunman leaped over the bodies of the dead and wounded and escaped over adjoining roofs despite a cordon of police, armed with machine guns and rifles, thrown around several blocks.

PUBLIC WORKS PLAN IS MADE

White's Relief Cabinet Unanimously Endorses Welfare Bond Issue Today.

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 20.—A $2,000,000 public works program for the coming winter was offered the state today by Governor George White's emergency relief cabinet in return for passage at the Nov. 3 election of the $7,500,000 welfare bond issue proposal.

Fausting in their groping for help for the jobless, cabinet members broadcast their endorsement of the bond issue suggestion, which is to be voted upon at a state-wide referendum, because, they said, it holds out the promise of "immediate relief."

Despite opposition of the measure, which sprang up almost immediately after the scheme was suggested by Governor White and has been fanned by the Ohio Farm Bureau in recent weeks, the vote for endorsement by the cabinet was unanimous.

The announcement of approval by the committee followed quickly after the wheels of Governor White's unemployment relief plan were set in operation yesterday with the beginning of work in carrying out a $3,000,000 emergency winter bridge building program.

COUNTY BUYS GUARD RAILS

Program to Further Safety of Automobile Drivers Planned
by County Dads.

Pickaway-co residents should not fear riding on any of the county roads, even though steep embankments are on either side, after an order of the county commissioners Monday.

As a part of a program to protect motorists, the county dads ordered the county engineer to purchase 800 guard rail posts from the Circleville Lumber Co. at a cost of 37½ cents per rail. This amounts to $300.

Employees of the office of County Engineer J. Howard Sweetnam will probably be working the next several weeks putting the guard posts into position.

COX TO SPEAK

Edison To Have Methodist Rite

Man Who Believed Only In
Supreme Intelligence Will
Be Buried Wednesday

WEST ORANGE, N. J., Oct. 20.—Thomas A. Edison, who was so conservative in his religious belief that he would not go beyond admitting that there is a supreme intelligence, will be buried with Methodist Episcopal services.

The funeral will be held at 2:30 tomorrow from Glenmont, the inventor's home on top of the hill in Llewellyn park. Interment will be in Rosedale cemetery, a beautiful graveyard on the border line between Orange and West Orange.

The Rev. Stephen J. Herben, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church in Maplewood, a little town two miles to the south of here, will conduct the funeral service.

DIRECTED BY WIDOW

Christian burial will be accorded this man, who was one of the greatest thinkers of all time, because of the influence of Mrs. Edison, his widow. Mrs. Edison for twenty-five years was the president of the Ladies Guild of the Methodist Episcopal church in Orange and was a moving spirit in the gathering of the funds with which the present edifice was built.

It was through Mrs. Edison that the Rev. Arthur H. Brown, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church in Orange started yesterday morning a series of three short prayers a day, at 8 a. m., 12 noon and 4 p. m., which will be continued through today.

The next service will be those with which the dead wizard is consigned to the dust.

In his prayer at sun-down last night, the Rev. Brown quoted from the book of Ecclesiastics in which Jehovah painted the glory of the heavens.

GIVES EULOGY

"This man," continued the clergyman, looking down at the still form of Edison in his bronze casket, "was also touched with the spirit of Jehovah."

"He stands out from among us for his love of truth, for his patient persistence, for his humility before the great facts of life, for his eagerness to be of benefit to the rest of mankind. In him were all the elements that go to make the man of God."

"His death was a fulfillment of his valuable life. It was as gentle as though he had fallen asleep. Its story was told in the great poem of Alfred Tennyson, his 'Crossing the Bar' which begins:

"Sunset and evening star—
And then the clerkman went on and finished the poem.

While he spoke, a small group of women stood reverently beside the casket. They were members of the Women's Guild of Mrs. Edison's church. You could feel their sympathy go out to her over the body of her dead husband.

WEST ORANGE, N. J., Oct. 20.—An American flag of gleaming silk was draped over the casket of Thomas A. Edison for 15 minutes today while representatives of the Orange and West Orange posts of the American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars held services in the laboratory where the inventor lies in state.

Mrs. Edison, in mourning, attended the service, with her brother, John Miller; her sister, Mrs. Halbert Kellogg Hitchcock, and her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Edison. The war veterans stood at salute beside the casket, near which had been placed the crutch and cane of John F. Ott, veteran Edison employee, who died yesterday of grief.

TRY PASTOR FOR MURDER OF SON

AUGUSTA, Ga., Oct. 20.—The state today resumed its efforts to prove the Rev. J. M. Williams, Rochelle, Ga., Methodist minister, shot and killed his 19-year-old son to collect insurance with which to recoup losses in market speculation.

Mrs. Georgia Williams, of Kittery, Md., widow of the slain youth, never before had seen her father-in-law until she sat within a few feet of him in the courtroom and heard witnesses testify the minister sent a blood-stained shirt to his laundress and that tire tracks found near the body corresponded with the tire of a car of the preacher's automobile.

AGED CIVIL WAR VET MURDERED

MEDINA, O., Oct. 20.—Convicted that the aged refuse was murdered and that robbery was the motive, Medina authorities today ordered an extensive hunt for the assassin of John Oliver Halliday, 92, whose battered body was found in his Chippewa Lake shack a few miles southwest of here.

Armed with several clews, Sheriff Lester Buffington and Prosecutor David Porter, launched an immediate search for the slayer who was believed to have committed the crime sometime last Saturday.

THREE DROWNED

LOWELL, Mass., Oct. 20.—Three men were drowned today and a second was rescued in a watery grave when their automobile in which they were riding crashed over an embankment into the Dutton canal here.

The men, Mrs. Beatrice E. Cline, and Mr. and Mrs. John Baker, all of Derry, N. H.

FAIR LOSES $5,000 SUM

Loss Includes Care and Maintenance of Grounds; Figures of Event Given.

Fairfield-co fair at Lancaster operated at a loss of $5,000 on the year's operation, according to a report by Amos Thomas, society treasurer.

An attendance of approximately 33,000 attended the event the last day.

The loss includes care and maintenance of the property for the 12 months. The board saved $600 on the cancellation of the Wednesday races, due to the rain that amount being the difference between the $1,000 purse and the $400 entry fees. The sum of $400 was also saved on the pyrotechnic display since Thursday night was the only night the weather permitted the fireworks display. The contract was for $200 a night for exhibition and if not held the fair board did not stand any expense.

Total paid gate admissions for the entire fair were $5,648 as compared with $5,650 a year ago and $7,068 the high record set in 1928.

There was no night fair Saturday and the fair closed with the racing program Saturday afternoon.

The stock parade which took place in the forenoon was a high spot of the closing day. The grand total of all the money received was $23,177.99 while last year the figure was near $29,000. The 1929 total was $35,000.

BALES RITES HELD

The private funeral services for the late Mrs. J. F. Bales were held at the residence on E. Main-st., Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev. Franklin McElfresh of Columbus, a former pastor here and close friend of the family, officiated, assisted by Rev. C. H. Eichinger of the local church. Pallbearers were A. L. Wilder, Blenn Bales Jr., Barton Deming, Robert Bales, Sam T. Rife and Stanley Glick. Interment was in Forest cemetery by Mader & Ebert.

Out-of-town relatives here were Dr. and Mrs. F. P. Fitzgerald, W. H. Laird, E. W. Bales, Miss Bonna Bales of London, Mrs. Sam Leake and Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Rife of Columbus, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bales and Elmer Crenshaw of Lancaster, Mr. and Mrs. Marcus Rife of Ashville and Mr. and Mrs. John Johnson of Cleveland.

Program to Further Safety of Automobile Drivers Planned
by County Dads.

Pickaway-co residents should not fear riding on any of the county roads, even though steep embankments are on either side, after an order of the county commissioners Monday.

As a part of a program to protect motorists, the county dads ordered the county engineer to purchase 800 guard rail posts from the Circleville Lumber Co., at a cost of 37½ cents per rail. This amounts to $300.

Employees of the office of County Engineer J. Howard Sweetman will probably be working the next several weeks putting the guard posts into position.

COX TO SPEAK

Arrangements have been completed for a second leadership training course to be held at the Presbyterian church Thursday, at 7:30 p. m.

At this time M. S. Cox, superintendent of county schools, will deliver an address "The Dangers and Pitfalls of Youth." Dr. Edwin S. Shanne will give an instructive lesson in first aid as another part of the program.

RETURNED HOME

Mrs. Charles Mumaw was removed from University hospital, Columbus, Tuesday in the Rinehart invalid car, to her home 108 1-2 S. Court-st.

STAG PARTY

There will be a stag party at the Pickaway Country club Wednesday at 6 p. m.

POLICE, GANG IN GUN FIGHT

Ex-Convict Killed, Three Detectives Seriously Wounded
In New York Duel.

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—Heavy battle casualties were listed today along the underworld war front—one ex-convict slain and three detectives seriously wounded.

The trio of detectives had gone into a rooming house on the upper west side where they had trapped a gangster trio of killers. The detectives went in with their heads up. They came out bullet-riddled on a stretcher after exchanging shot for shot at barely more than punching distance.

Enrico Battaglia, 26, former convict, shot it out until he was killed. He was wanted for his part in the cold-blooded killing of Patrolman Jerry Brosnan in Fordham hospital two years ago. Brosnan, assigned to guard a wounded prisoner, was peppered with bullets as he dozed.

The wounded detectives in the hospital today were Edward Willi, James De Ferraro and Guido Pessagno. Pessagno, with five bullet wounds, was in a critical condition.

The two companions of the slain gunman leaped over the bodies of the dead and wounded and escaped over adjoining roofs despite a cordon of police, armed with machine guns and rifles, thrown around several blocks.

FAIRFIELD BAR DEAN IS TAKEN

James A. Tobin, Aged 81,
Well Known Here, Is Claimed
While in His Office.

James A. Tobin, 81, dean of the Lancaster, O., bar, died Monday afternoon in his office at Lancaster from a heart attack.

Mr. Tobin was a practicing attorney for more than 50 years. He formerly was city solicitor of Lancaster and prosecutor of Fairfield-co. Early in his career he practiced law at Nelsonville and served as mayor of that city.

Four sons, Don L. Tobin of Columbus, Earl P. Tobin, Springfield; Dallas E. Tobin of New York and Emil L. Tobin of Lancaster; a granddaughter, Mrs. Glenna Stout and a half brother, Wesley Tobin, Lancaster, also survive.

Funeral arrangements have not been made.

BOND APPROVED

Bond of H. M. Ogden, Columbus contractor, for $15,614, to guarantee the satisfactory completion of a concrete box culvert to replace structure number 9 on the Havesville-Zanesville-rd, in Pickaway-twp was approved by the county commissioners Monday.

Mr. Ogden and the National Union Indemnity Co. are sureties. The contractor expects to begin work at once on the project.

CHAS. WILDMAN DIES

Charles Wildman, aged 81, of Columbus, father of Thomas Wildman of Stoupsville, died Monday evening at his home.

Besides the son, he is survived by his widow, four daughters, one other son, 21 grandchildren and six great grandchildren.

Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

OF CLERK OF BANK

TERRA ALTA, W. Va., Oct. 20.—Investigation was conducted here today into the death of Harry Idelman, 32, clerk of the First National Bank of Terra Alta which was closed yesterday along with the Terra Alta Bank.

Idelman was found dead in his automobile. After a preliminary investigation death was pronounced due to carbon monoxide poisoning.

Edison To Have Methodist Rite

Man Who Believed Only In
Supreme Intelligence Will
Be Buried Wednesday

WEST ORANGE, N. J., Oct. 20.—Thomas A. Edison, who was so conservative in his religious belief that he would not go beyond admitting that there is a supreme intelligence, will be buried with Methodist Episcopal services.

The funeral will be held at 2:30 tomorrow from Glenmont, the inventor's home on top of the hill in Llewellyn park. Interment will be in Rosedale cemetery, a beautiful graveyard on the border line between Orange and West Orange.

The Rev. Stephen J. Herben, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church in Maplewood, a little town two miles to the south of here, will conduct the funeral service.

DIRECTED BY WIDOW

Christian burial will be accorded this man, who was one of the greatest thinkers of all time, because of the influence of Mrs. Edison, his widow. Mrs. Edison for twenty-five years was the president of the Ladies Guild of the Methodist Episcopal church in Orange and was a moving spirit in the gathering of the funds with which the present edifice was built.

It was through Mrs. Edison that the Rev. Arthur H. Brown, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church in Orange started yesterday morning a series of three short prayers a day, at 8 in the morning, at noon and at sun-down which will be continued through today. The next service will be those with which the dead wizard is consigned to the dust.

GIVES EULOGY

"This man," continued the clergyman, looking down at the still form of Edison in his bronze casket, "was also touched with the spirit of Jehovah."

"He stands out from among us for his love of truth, for his patient persistence, for his humility before the great facts of life, for his eagerness to be of benefit to the rest of mankind. In him were all the elements that go to make the man of God."

"His death was a fulfillment of his valuable life. It was as gentle as though he had fallen asleep. Its story was told in the great poem of Alfred Tennyson, his 'Crossing the Bar' which begins:

"Sunset and evening star—"
And then the clergyman went on and finished the poem.

While he spoke, a small group of women stood reverently beside the casket. They were members of the Women's Guild of Mrs. Edison's church. You could feel their sympathy go out to her over the body of her dead husband.

WEST ORANGE, N. J., Oct. 20.

An American flag of gleaming silk was draped over the casket of Thomas A. Edison for 15 minutes today while representatives of the Orange and West Orange posts of the American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars held services in the laboratory where the inventor lies in state.

Mrs. Edison, in mourning, attended the service, with her brother, John Miller; her sister, Mrs. Halbert Kellogg Hitchcock, and her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Edison. The war veterans stood at salute beside the casket, near which had been placed the crutch and cane of John F. Ott, veteran Edison employee, who died yesterday of grief.

TRY PASTOR FOR MURDER OF SON

AUGUSTA, Ga., Oct. 20.—The state today resumed its efforts to prove the Rev. J. M. Williams, Rochelle, Ga., Methodist minister, shot and killed his 19-year-old son to collect insurance with which to recoup losses in market speculation.

Mrs. Georgia Williams, of Kittery, Md., widow of the slain youth, never before had seen her father-in-law until she sat within a few feet of him in the courtroom and heard witnesses testify the minister sent a blood-stained shirt to his laundress, and that tire tracks found near the body corresponded with the tread of tires on the preacher's automobile.

AGED CIVIL WAR VET MURDERED

MEDINA, O., Oct. 20.—Convinced that the aged reclus was murdered and that robbery was the motive, Medina-co authorities today pressed an extensive hunt for the assailant of John Ovier Halliday, 92, whose battered body was found in his Chipewa Lake shack, a few miles southwest of here.

Armed with several clues, Sheriff Lyman Buffington and Prosecutor David Porter launched an immediate search for the slayer who was believed to have committed the crime sometime last Saturday.

THREE DROWNED

LOWELL, Mass., Oct. 20.—Three persons, two women and a man, were drowned today and a second man escaped a watery grave, when their automobile in which they were riding, crashed over an embankment into the Dutton-st canal here.

The dead: Mrs. Beatrice E. Coons, 33; and Mrs. and Mrs. John Ballou, all of Derry, N. H.

FAIR LOSES $5,000 SUM

Loss Includes Care and Maintenance of Grounds; Figures of Event Given.

Fairfield-co fair at Lancaster operated at a loss of $5,000 on the year's operation, according to a report by Amos Thomas, society treasurer.

An attendance of approximately 33,000 attended the event the last day.

The loss includes care and maintenance of the property for the 12 months. The board saved $800 on the cancellation of the Wednesday races, due to the rain that amount being the difference between the $1,000 purse and the $400 entry fees. The sum of $400 was also saved on the pyrotechnic display since Thursday night was the only night the weather permitted the fireworks display. The contract was for $200 a night for exhibition and if not held the fair board did not stand any expense.

Total paid gate admissions for the entire fair were 55,648 as compared with 55,650 a year ago and 77,068 the high record set in 1928.

There was no night fair Saturday and the fair closed with the racing program Saturday afternoon.

The stock parade which took place in the forenoon was a high spot of the closing day.

The grand total of all the money received was $23,177.89 while last year the figure was near $29,000. The 1929 total was $35,000.

BALES RITES HELD

The private funeral services for the late Mrs. J. F. Bales were held at the residence on E. Main-st, Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev. Franklin McElfresh of Columbus, a former pastor here and close friend of the family, officiated, assisted by Rev. C. H. Eichinger of the local church. Pallbearers were A. L. Wilder, Blen Bales Jr., Barton Deming, Robert Bales, Sam T. Rife and Stanley Glick. Interment was in Forest cemetery by Mader & Ebert.

Out-of-town relatives here were: Dr. and Mrs. F. P. Fitzgerald, W. H. Laird, E. W. Bales, Miss Bonna Bales of London; Mrs. Sam Leake and Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Rife of Columbus; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bales and Elmer Chenoweth of Lancaster; Mr. and Mrs. Marcus Rife of Ashville and Mr. and Mrs. John Johnson of Cleveland.

Search by Police

BODIES IN CASES

Brother of Woman is Arrested

(BULLETIN)

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 20.—Breaking down under police grilling, B. J. McKinnell, 22, a university student, today confessed that his sister, Mrs. Ruth Judd, had admitted killing Agnes Leroy and Hedwig Samuelson, and shipping their mangled bodies in trunks from Phoenix, Ariz., to Los Angeles.

"My little sister said she was 'perfectly justified,'" McKinnell sobbed.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 20.—Following the discovery here of two trunks containing the grisly remains of two murdered women, officers of two states today launched an intensive search for Mrs. Winifred Ruth Judd, pretty 27-year old wife of a Los Angeles and Phoenix, Ariz., physician.

Mrs. Judd's brother, B. J. McKinnell, 22, a student at the University of Southern California, was under arrest.

The dead women, identified as Miss Agnes Ann Leroy, 35, an X-ray technician at Grunow Memorial Clinic, Phoenix, Ariz., and Miss Hedwig Samuelson, 24-year old school teacher, were found in two trunks in the Southern Pacific railroad station last night.

FIND BODIES

The search for Mrs. Judd approached a climax early today with the discovery of a missing portion of Miss Samuelson's dismembered body. The missing remains, object of an all-night search, were found in a suitcase in an anteroom of the railway station.

The trunks were shipped here from Phoenix, Sunday.

A baggage man, Andrew V. Anderson, saw blood dripping from the trunks and declined to release them to a woman and young man who presented checks for them. Anderson said he thought the trunks had contained contraband venison. He called police who made the gruesome discovery.

Mrs. Judd became the focal point of the investigation when she was identified by police as the young woman who had appeared at the railroad station and sought to claim the two trunks.

HUNT IN YUMA

Search for Mrs. Judd extended to Yuma, Ariz., when investigation indicated that the woman, after having been refused possession of the trunks on account of the suspicion which she had aroused, was supposed to have purchased a ticket for Yuma.

Mrs. Judd, however, was not on the train when it passed through Yuma en route to Phoenix today. Dr. Judd, who said he had not

CHINA SEEKS QUICK ACTION

Claims Dilatory Action On Manchurian Question
Hurts Government.

GENEVA, Oct. 20.—The Chinese delegation today addressed a desperate and urgent appeal to the League of Nations council for immediate action in the Manchurian conflict.

The delegation informed Aristide Briand, French foreign minister, who is presiding over the council's deliberation, that unless some definite action is taken at once the Chinese nationalist government at Nanking may be overthrown.

The council's dilatory policy in drafting concrete peace proposals, the Chinese asserted, has weakened Nanking's position at the peace conference which opened late today at Shanghai between the warring Nanking and Cantonese factions, that President Chiang Kai Shek may be forced to give way to a successor named by the Cantonese.

SISTER SHIP OF 'AKRON' PLANNED

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—While assigning Lieutenant Commander Charles E. Rosendahl to fly the navy new giant dirigible "Akron" from Akron, O., to the naval dirigible base at Lakehurst, N. J., Secretary of the Navy Adams disclosed that work already has started on the construction of its sister ship the ZRS-5. Rosendahl was asked to have the "Akron" at Lakehurst by Thursday if weather permits.

HENS AND PULLETS REPAY FOR CARE

The feed and egg price is very favorable for the poultryman who is obtaining profits. The time of year when the pullets should be sold to the most mature.

Get the birds on to a clean wholesome laying ration as soon as possible. If the pullets are of medium weight it would be advisable to feed scratch grain with the laying mash ration. The scratch grain may be composed of ground corn, 50 pounds; wheat, 30 pounds, oats 20 pounds, from 10 to 14 pounds of this scratch ration should be fed daily per 100 hens according to their condition and appetites.

It is more sanitary to put the scratch grain in the hopper on top of the mash or in a regular grain trough than to feed it in the litter. A very good laying mash to go with the scratch ration may be composed of yellow corn meal 40 pounds, ground wheat 20 pounds, ground oats 20 pounds, alfalfa 15 pounds, dried milk 5 pounds salt one pound.

To those who prefer an all-mash laying ration, the following makes a very satisfactory combination: ground yellow corn 30 pounds, cracked wheat 30 pounds; wheat bran 10 pounds; finely ground heavy oats 10 pounds; meat scrap 10 pounds; dried milk 3 pounds; alfalfa leaf meal 6 pounds; all 1 pound.

Sanitary conditions in the poultry house and equipment is most important as a precaution against infection disease. Special care should be taken to avoid drafts in ventilating the house. This is the time of year at which only slight exposure to draft may result in roup and colds throughout the entire winter. Any birds showing symptoms of chicken pox, roup or other diseases should be isolated immediately from the flock.

Morrow's Human Understanding Made Him Universally Popular

Sincerity, His Creed, Common Sense and Simplicity of Reasoning, Rather Than Machiavellian Subtlety, Made Him a Truly Great Diplomat and Statesman

Dwight W. Morrow is mourned by not only millions of his fellow countrymen, but by a host of people in other lands whose friendship and confidence he had won by his sincerity and understanding of their human problems. Despite his connection with the financial house of Morgan, Morrow always had time to serve his country and represented it at the London Naval Conference as well as in the Allied Maritime Council, for which he was honored by all the participating nations. A classmate of ex-President Calvin Coolidge at Amherst, Morrow was called in by the then Chief Executive and sent as Ambassador to Mexico at a time when relations between that country and the United States were strained almost to breaking point. After a series of informal talks with President Calles of Mexico, Morrow's charm of personality and understanding won the day and cleared away the clouds of doubt and distrust. Dwight Morrow was elected to the U. S. Senate just a year ago by a majority that testified to his popularity in New Jersey and it was a certainty that he would have played an important role in the 1932 Republican presidential campaign if he had lived.

OHIO WELFARE WORKER URGES PASSAGE OF STATE BOND ISSUE

COLUMBUS, O. — The per capita cost to Ohio of the $7,500,000 welfare bond issue, which will come before the November voters for approval, will be one cent per month for the next 10 years, according to William J. Kennedy, assistant state director of welfare.

"The funds from this bond issue will remove all fire hazards in all state institutions and provide 3710 more beds for state wards," Kennedy declared.

The assistant state welfare director pointed out that the savings to practically every county of the state by providing additional facilities in state institutions for patients will more than pay for the bond issue.

CROWDED CONDITIONS
"At present time there are hundreds of patients who cannot be admitted to state institutions because of overcrowded conditions. Under the law the counties must themselves take care of these patients. The money the counties spend for this work would go a long way to balance the bond issue being sought of the voters," he pointed out.

In the field of insane wards of the state, a survey by the welfare department, shows an over population of 2,000 in the eight state hospitals.

"The population," according to Assistant Director Kennedy, "in the hospitals for insane has increased in the past two years more than 1,000 and unless the bond issue is approved, there is no possibility of relief within the next two years."

In discussing costs to counties of the state because of inadequate facilities in state hospitals Kennedy pointed out that there is a definite waiting list of more than 1,000 feeble-minded persons who have been committed to state institutions, but cannot be received on account of the overcrowded conditions.

"There is a further group of several thousands who have not even been brought into care by the hospitals because of inadequate child caring nurseries because these superstitious groups are aware there is little chance of getting them admitted," he said.

He declared the reformative and correctional institutions of Ohio to have a population of feeble-minded estimated at from 15,000 to 20,000 and that many of them are and should be transferred to feeble-minded institutions if it were not for the bond issue.

TO MAKE ADDRESS
The serious problem of caring for the state in the welfare department was placed before the first meeting of the Ohio State Welfare Council by Assistant Director Kennedy.

He advocated the establishment of an isolation ward in the state institution, pointing to the recent disaster which had been caused at the Cleveland state hospital for insane.

"An isolation ward in each institution is just as necessary as a fire escape to a commercial building. If it was never used I would be more pleased than if it was," he declared.

The additional facilities provided by the bond issue would take care of 1860 additional insane persons and 1200 feeble minded.

Facilities for 200 more at the Columbus hospital for insane could be provided, and 100 feeble minded at Orient, just south of Columbus. The issue will provide for a total of $185 mental wards.

The bond issue will appear on the ballot as a constitutional amendment, Kennedy explained. Approval of the issue has been given by social and civic groups in Cleveland. Assistant Director Kennedy will go to Cincinnati next week for approval there.

WARNING GIVEN TO STORE SEED CORN

In a year like the present, when there is a large crop of well matured corn, it is easy for corn growers to overlook the importance of both selection and storage of seed. The value of careful selection and proper storage of seed corn has been demonstrated over a long period of time. Enterprising corn growers are taking special care of their seed, to store it where it will dry out before severe freezing weather arrives. Ordinarily 15 to 16 ears of seed corn will plant an acre of ground, the following year. However, it pays to select and store approximately twice that number of ears for each acre which you plan to seed the following year. This practice affords an opportunity to cultivate carefully for various field diseases. It also affords an opportunity to select more carefully to one type of corn.

In storing seed corn, the different ears should be kept apart to avoid the encouragement of mold and infection of healthy corn through contact with a diseased ear. Prepare proper storage for your seed corn, do it now and insure your 1932 corn crop.

SORE THROAT

There's a world of winter comfort in Bayer Aspirin tablets. If you take them only to break-up colds, you know only half the story. Three tablets crushed in a little water will relieve the sorest throat with one good gargle. That's what the specialists use in cases of sore throat. That's what you ought to use at home—every time you want throat comfort and protection from infection. Remember, every case of tonsillitis began with just a sore throat! Don't neglect any sore throat. Gargle with Bayer Aspirin at the first tickling felt. Take a couple of tablets for that headache that comes with a cold—for neuralgia, neuritis, or similar pain. If it's genuine Bayer, it can't hurt the heart.

HENS AND PULLETS REPAY FOR CARE

The feed and egg price is very favorable to the poultryman who is interested in obtaining profits from his flock. The time of year has arrived when the pullets should be culled, to the most mature and housed.

Get the birds on to a clean wholesome laying ration as soon as possible. If the pullets are of medium weight, it would be advisable to feed scratch grain with the laying mash ration. The scratch grain may be composed of ground corn, 50 pounds; wheat, 30 pounds; oats 20 pounds; from 10 to 14 pounds of this scratch ration should be fed daily per 100 hens according to their condition and appetites.

It is more sanitary to put the scratch grain in the hopper on top of the mash or in a regular grain trough than to feed it in the litter. A very good laying mash to go with the scratch ration may be composed of Yellow corn meal 40 pounds; ground wheat 20 pounds; ground oats 20 pounds; meat scrap 15 pounds; dried milk 5 pounds; salt one pound.

To those who prefer an all-mash laying ration, the following makes a very satisfactory combination: ground yellow corn 30 pounds; cracked wheat 30 pounds; wheat bran 10 pounds; finely ground heavy oats 10 pounds; meat scrap 10 pounds; dried milk 3 pounds; alfalfa leaf meal 6 pounds; salt 1 pound.

Sanitary conditions about the poultry house and equipment is most important as a precaution against infection disease. Special care should be taken to avoid drafts in ventilating the house. This is the time of year at which only slight exposure to draft may result in roup and colds throughout the entire winter. Any birds showing symptoms of chicken pox, roup or other diseases should be isolated immediately from the flock.

Morrow's Human Understanding Made Him Universally Popular

Sincerity, His Creed, Common Sense and Simplicity of Reasoning, Rather Than Machiavellian Subtlety, Made Him a Truly Great Diplomat and Statesman

Dwight W. Morrow is mourned by not only millions of his fellow countrymen, but by a host of people in other lands whose friendship and confidence he had won by his sincerity and understanding of their human problems. Despite his connection with the financial house of Morgan, Morrow always had time to serve his country and represented it at the London Naval Conference as well as in the Allied Maritime Council, for which he was honored by all the participating nations. A classmate of ex-President Calvin Coolidge at Amherst, Morrow was called in by the then Chief Executive and sent as Ambassador to Mexico at a time when relations between that country and the United States were strained almost to breaking point. After a series of informal talks with President Calles of Mexico, Morrow's charm of personality and understanding won the day and cleared away the clouds of doubt and distrust. Dwight Morrow was elected to the U. S. Senate just a year ago by a majority that testified to his popularity in New Jersey and it was a certainty that he would have played an important role in the 1932 Republican presidential campaign if he had lived.

OHIO WELFARE WORKER URGES PASSAGE OF STATE BOND ISSUE

COLUMBUS, O. — The per capita cost to Ohio of the $7,500,000 welfare bond issue, which will come before the November voters for approval, will be one cent per month for the next 10 years, according to William J. Kennedy, assistant state director of welfare.

"The funds from this bond issue will remove all fire hazards in all state institutions and provide 3710 more beds for state wards," Kennedy declared.

CROWDED CONDITIONS

"At present time there are hundreds of patients who cannot be admitted to state institutions because of overcrowded conditions. Under the law the counties must themselves take care of these patients. The money the counties spend for this work would go a long way to balance the bond issue being sought of the voters," he pointed out.

In the field of insane wards of the state, a survey, by the welfare department, shows an over population of 2,000 in the eight state hospitals.

"The population," according to Assistant Director Kennedy, "in the hospitals for insane has increased in the past two years more than 1,000 and, unless the bond issue is approved, there is no possibility of relief within the next two years."

In discussing costs to counties of the state because of inadequate facilities in state hospitals, Kennedy pointed out that there is a definite waiting list of more than 1,000 feeble-minded persons who have been committed to state institutions, but cannot be received on account of the overcrowded conditions.

"There is a further group of several thousands who have not even been brought into court by the schools, social agencies and child caring bureaus because these supervising groups are aware there is little chance of getting them admitted," he said.

He declared the reformatory and correctional institutions of Ohio to have a population of feeble-minded estimated at from 15 to 25 per cent, and that many of these can and should be transferred to feeble minded institutions if facilities are provided.

TO MAKE ADDRESS

The serious problem confronting the state in its welfare institutions was placed before the Optimist club of Columbus at its Tuesday meeting by Assistant Director Kennedy.

He advocates the establishment of an isolation ward in every state institution, pointing to the recent disastrous typhoid fever epidemic at the Cleveland state hospital for insane.

"An isolation ward in each institution is just as necessary as a fire engine to a community. If it was never used I would be more pleased than if it was," he declared.

The additional facilities provided by the bond issue would take care of 1860 additional insane persons and 1200 feeble minded.

Facilities for 200 more at the Columbus hospital for insane could be provided, and 100 feeble minded at Orient, just south of Columbus. The issue will provide for a total of 3185 mental wards.

The bond issue will appear on the ballot as a constitutional amendment, Kennedy explained. Approval of the issue has been given by social and civic groups in Cleveland. Assistant Director Kennedy will go to Cincinnati next week for approval there.

WARNING GIVEN TO STORE SEED CORN

In a year like the present, when there is a large crop of well matured corn, it is easy for corn growers to overlook the importance of both selection and storage of seed. The value of careful selection and proper storage of seed corn has been demonstrated over a long period of time. Enterprising corn growers are taking special care of their seed to store it where it will dry out before severe freezing weather arrives. Ordinarily 15 to 16 cars of seed corn will plant an acre of ground, the following year. However, it pays to select and store approximately twice that number of ears for each acre which you plan to seed the following year. This practice affords an opportunity to cull carefully for various field diseases. It also affords an opportunity to select more carefully to one type of corn.

In storing seed corn, the different ears should be kept a part to avoid the encouragement of mold and infection of healthy corn through contact with a diseased ear. Prepare proper storage for your seed corn, do it now and insure your 1932 corn crop.

SORE THROAT

There's a world of winter comfort in Bayer Aspirin tablets. If you take them only to break-up colds, you know only half the story. Three tablets crushed in a little water will relieve the sorest throat with one good gargle. That's what the specialists use in cases of sore throat. That's what you ought to use at home—every time you want throat comfort and protection from infection. Remember, every case of tonsillitis began with just a sore throat! Don't neglect any sore throat. Gargle with Bayer Aspirin at the first tickling felt. Take a couple of tablets for that headache that comes with a cold—for neuralgia, neuritis, or similar pain. If it's genuine Bayer, it can't hurt the heart.

Moving Expenses
THERE is an old saying that three moves equal a fire. It has reference to the loss sustained in frequent changes of habitation. The fall moving season is now ending and there has been an unusual amount of change in residence. This has led some to estimate the cost of this shifting of the "household goods." Gas companies, because of the peculiar position they occupy, know better than any others, possibly the extent of moving. They say that about 15 per cent of the urban population moves from one residence to another every spring and an equal number in the fall. This proportion is declared to be low for some cities but it is regarded as an average. And these changes involve expenses.
A statistician announces that expenditures for the spring moving, taking the United States as a whole, based on figures he has gathered, total over $200,000,000. Since it may be assumed that fall moving is about the same, the amount of the annual tax on those who change their abode is impressive. The expense is distributed thus: $58,000,000 represents the cost of moving, $117,000,000 the cost of new furnishings, $11,000,000 goes to plumbers and fitters, another $11,000,000 is the cost of eating while in the process of moving and nearly $2,000,000 is the cost of changing meters and making other connections to fit the new homes for use. Then an equal sum will be called for next spring though possibly from different people.
The estimate would appear to constitute an irrefutable argument for ownership of homes, though home-owners at times find it necessary to change residence. Yet, the masses of movers must come from the class of persons who rent. To be under the necessity of moving frequently adds materially to the cost of living.

Morality Is Relative
In a natural state, as men of sense agree, the natural thing is the moral thing. But when men outgrow jungle ethics and invent compassion and unselfishness, morality became a much more complicated business. It becomes and remains largely a matter of having regard for the other fellow.
By common consent, suicide is immoral. The suicide, in nearly all cases, is dodging. Yet when a man deliberately sacrifices his life to save others, which is suicide, people feel that he has been a credit to his race. The result in both cases is the same; the man is dead. But one case his action seemed ignoble and in the other it seemed noble because he thought only of others.
Habitual drunkenness, by common consent, is immoral. Yet if by getting drunk every day a man could render great service to society, the intemperance would seem noble, regardless of what it did to the inebriate. Society frowns upon the drunk because he spends for himself the money his family needs, becomes a public nuisance and usually makes himself unfit for any useful service.
Robin Hood was a thief, and stealing isn't moral, and yet because the gay rogue divided his spoils with the poor he remains even to this moral age a popular hero. When civilized nations appropriate to their own use the lands of a backward people the occupation is theft and nothing less. Yet, because the world benefits, society sees nothing dishonest in the business.
This is not to argue that the end always justifies the means, but only that society, in its present imperfect state, regards as moral that which seems to contribute to its own security and happiness.

Men of Submissive Souls
THE latest philosopher to discuss the subject of "The Psychology of Differences between Men and Women" had no original or profound discovery to report. For the most part he was content to tread the well-worn path. However, upon one novelty he ventured when he sought to explain the supremacy of the wife in the home.
His theory is that the wife spends the whole day storing up energy while her husband, away from home, expends it all in using up the energy he stored up on the preceding night. Knowing that he has no chance against such accumulated energy, the husband meekly submits.
The trouble with the theory seems to be that most wives have enough energy to run their dynamic energy throughout the day that they can usually muster up a tired

"I didn't do that."
"The lady will testify to those facts?"
"I will not permit her. I will not name her."
"She will come forward on her own account then?"
"Not if I can prevent it."
"You would rather die than involuntarily?"
"Undoubtedly."
"Why?"
"For a good reason."
"That is the sort of yarn that Chapman, the super-bandit, tried to put over. Why don't you try to be original?" Dougherty fumed.
As Thatcher Colt gave the District Attorney an uneasy glance, he fell into a grinning, triumphant silence.
"Don't you realize, Doctor, that if there is such a lady the police will find her?"
"I do not have any fear of that."
"Do you believe it was your wife who was laying that trap for you?"
"Perhaps."
"Could she have killed Geraldine Foster and tried to put it on you?"
"She is cunning and cruel."

The Net Closes
"Do you know this key?"
Thatcher Colt placed in the doctor's hands the key that had been found in the coat pocket of Geraldine Foster.
"Yes. It is the key to the house on Peddler's Road."
"How did Geraldine get hold of it?"
"I don't know."
"Was the pillow case the property of the lady you are protecting?"
"I don't know."
"You saw the pillow case?"
"Yes."
"Did you buy that pillow case?"
"I don't know anything about pillow cases."
"What is your wife's full name and where does she live?"
"There was no answer. Thatcher Colt bent over the huge form, listless and sprawling in the chair.
At the same moment there came a hasty rapping on the door. As Thatcher Colt seemed more concerned about the unreplying doctor, I went to the door. As I opened it, Hogan burst past me with the furious force of a football player. He was panting with haste and excitement and held in front of him a bulky bag-like object.
"Hogan!" cried Dougherty, "what's up?"
Instead of replying Hogan cast his bundle on the floor. It was a pillow case embroidered with roses—a duplicate of the one found over the head of Geraldine Foster. No one spoke as Hogan dramatically removed the contents and held them up, piece by piece, for inspection.
"They were the blood-stained clothes of the murdered girl."
"Where did you get these?" asked Colt crisply.
"I found them in a closet in the office of Doctor Maskell," gasped Hogan, with a grin at the prone figure on the couch.
"Now well talk turkey!" exploded Dougherty.
But Thatcher Colt, even then, tried to stay the determination of the District Attorney.
"Doctor Maskell has fallen asleep," he protested.
"The device with that," answered Dougherty. "This man killed Geraldine Foster. Wake up, Maskell!"

The District Attorney seized the sleeping doctor and shook him roughly. Blearily, the prisoner opened his eyes and peered up at his captor, who drew a document from his pocket.
"Doctor Maskell," he said, "I arrest you under a short affidavit, charging you with the murder of Geraldine Foster. Here is the warrant."
The doctor managed a feeble smile, closed his eyes and fell instantly back into slumber.
At a signal from the Commissioner, the two police attendants carried the unconscious prisoner out of the library. Then Thatcher Colt faced Merle Dougherty.
Not Guilty.
"Going through with this farce?" he asked.
"Farce?"
"Yes. You think this was a crime of passion. It was not. It was a cold-blooded, business proposition—and I do not believe that the murderer and victim were even acquainted with each other."
"Colt, sometimes I think you are mad."
"Mad, because I do not believe Maskell is guilty?"
"He will be indicted tomorrow."

He was panting with haste and excitement and held in front of him a bulky bag-like object.

and burn before Thanksgiving," predicted Dougherty, rising on his toes and lifting his eyebrows.
"Attaboy!" crowed Hogan, putting the clothes back into the pillow case. As a County Detective, Hogan could say this. If he had belonged to the Police Department, Colt would have put him on a beat where he could chase goats in the Bronx for his impertinence.
"For heaven's sake, listen to reason, Dougherty. Maskell is as innocent of this crime as you are. And if you give me time, I'll prove it and deliver the guilty person into your hands."
Dougherty put his hands on his hips.
"Colt," he remonstrated, "you're impossible. I have been more patient with you than any man in my position should be. But now I'm through. Maskell killed Geraldine Foster and he's going to fry for it."
"And what if later I prove you wrong?"
"I'll be the first to apologize."
"But suppose Doctor Maskell has been electrocuted by that time?"
The District Attorney shook his head sadly.
"He'll be electrocuted a long, long time before you or anybody else proves him innocent." He retorted confidently. "You're through with this case now. Forher—instead of all that blood-letting."

"Why was she stripped nude, after the murder?"
"Why was the pillow case over her head?"
"Who was the mysterious woman the doctor found at the door?"
Dougherty laughed as he shook his hands with Thatcher Colt.
"Come to the trial," he shouted, "and you'll hear the answer to all your questions."

BERG AT CAMP
Gunnar H. Berg, Director of volunteer training, national council, Boy Scouts of America, will be the guest of the Central Ohio Area Council at Camp Lazarus on Saturday, October 24th. During the afternoon, the local Scoutmasters will be instructed in campcraft and hikecraft by Mr. Berg as a part of the Training Course for Scoutmasters. Each man who attends will cook his own supper.
The evening program will be largely a reunion and get-together of Central Ohio Scouts. Mr. Berg will conduct the songs and activities at the campfire. All who have attended any training session are urged to meet Mr. Berg. Mr. Berg is one of the most experienced men in Scoutcraft having served as Assistant Scoutmaster, Scoutmaster, Scout Commissioner, local Council President and National Scout Executive.
His experience in the field of education as High School Principal and instructor in the Washington State Normal School have accounted for his progress and leadership in the field of education.

CLIFTONA THEATRE
There's a real chance to see the inside of something you've been aching to get the low-down on all your life. See what a "Personal Maid" sees, hear what she hears, and there's not much about the swanky swells of Gotham you'll have to wonder about.
For "Personal Maid," the revealing picture from Grace Perkins' exciting novel, is at the Cliftona.

Theatre for two days, with titian-haired Nancy Carroll playing the title role; Pat O'Brien doing a self-made business man; Gene Raymond, an interesting screen new-comer, as a rollicking rich college-boy; George Fawcett happily grouchy as the multi-millionaire Gary Gary, and rib-tickling Mary Boland making much of the society dowager.
"Personal Maid" is the Cinderella story made real, with Nancy

Know What and How - To Feed Your Baby!

Dr. Copeland, in the First of a Series of Articles on Infant Feeding, Tells Why Proper Feeding Is a Factor in Baby's Present and Future Health

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States Senator from New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

A old friend of mine used to say that babies are like watermelons—just so many are born every year, and we are glad of it. No home is complete without a baby.
One of the great problems of motherhood is to know exactly what and how to feed the baby. As a matter of fact, there is little choice in the matter.

Beginning today and continuing in a series of eight articles, Dr. Royal S. Copeland, noted health authority, discusses every phase of that vital problem of every mother, the proper feeding of infants. The articles will be published on this page twice weekly, Monday and Tuesday. If clipped and preserved they offer an excellent source of complete information on this all-important subject.

It is true, of course, that in the arm of various combinations these elements include almost all the chemical substances known to man. In one form or another, these chemical substances must be had if the body is to thrive.

If It Were Possible
It is not possible to mix together the right proportion of these chemicals and take them in a capsule. How simple life would be if there could be a pill in the house of each mother, so that she could feed her baby with a capsule. Then motherhood could run in the confidence and ease of the pharmacist and the mother could have the appropriate capsule in her baby's mouth.

Needless to say, the eating problem will never become so simple as this. As a matter of fact, the baby who only eats food would never want to be a capsule. The necessity of the baby to take a capsule is to be a capsule, such an impossible thing.

elements which are essential to our well being, and particularly important to the growing baby. I refer to those mysterious substances known as vitamins. It may be that they will be resolved sometime into their chemical elements. With present knowledge they are beyond the ken even of the modern scientist.

"Modified Milk"
With grown persons the matter of "housework" is important. Certain parts of our food, particularly from the vegetable world, are in digestible form. Yet they have an important part to play in the activity of the digestive organs.

With the baby the problem of feeding is less complicated, but far more important. The baby's food must be prepared with far greater accuracy than is demanded in the feeding of the adult. Nature has provided for this necessity by providing milk, the most wonderful and valuable of all foods.

When we study the composition of milk we find it contains all those food elements which I mentioned as the essential ones in human food. Also it is rich in the most precious vitamins which have to do with the growth of the baby. Fortunately, most mothers can give their babies that most desirable form of feeding, breast milk. There are mothers, however, who for one reason or another cannot feed their babies with breast milk. When this happens, it is necessary to resort to artificial feeding. When the baby is fed with artificial food, it must be given in a form which I will discuss in my next article on Infant Feeding, which will appear on this page Wednesday.

LETTERS TO EDITOR

BUYING VOES
An Open Letter
Editor, Circleville Herald:—
We are sending you this open letter for publication on behalf of a large number of law-respecting, law-abiding and at the same time impatient citizens and voters of Circleville.

A number of years ago, vote-buying at from $2 to $10 per head in the country at large, was the almost universal custom. In these later days and as bitter partisanship comes more and more into disrepute, the character-degrading and law-defying custom, has gone out of fashion, except in sections few and far between.
As shame-facedly as the confession must be made, certain Circleville politicians appear to be among the few who have not yet heard that vote-buying is no longer in vogue; that it is not only a defiance of our election laws but renders a candidate if thus nominated or elected unfit for and ineligible to office. Moreover, it subjects the vote-buyer to prosecution, fine and imprisonment. Below, is the section, in substance, of the election laws relative to vote-buying or bribery and which it is the duty of the Prosecuting Attorney to enforce under his oath and with all due diligence:

Whoever, before, during or after any primary convention or election, gives, lends, offers or procures or promises to give, lend, offers, procures or promise, to give money, office, employment, influence or other valuable consideration, to or for a delegate, elector or other person; or attempts by intimidation, coercion or other unlawful means, to induce such delegate or elector to register or refrain from registering, to vote or refrain from voting at a primary or an election, shall be guilty of bribery and shall upon conviction, be fined not more than $1000 or imprisoned in the penitentiary not more than three years or both. And if he be a candidate he shall forfeit the nomination and if elected he shall forfeit the office."

Now that is what we would call a pretty plain and stiff section of law; and candidates who violate it, are not only unfit to hold office but in doing so, are looking squarely into the door of the penitentiary.

It is generally and pretty well known that for several years past, vote-buying in Circleville, has been a custom of certain candidates. Recently, a body of law-abiding citizens, counseled together, and substantially organized to see what could be done to circumvent this unlawful, degrading and vicious practice. Naturally, these citizens expect the cooperation of the proper officials as well as law-abiding citizens, generally in this laudable undertaking of purifying our elections. It is fair to assume that the prosecutor has the same general information regarding these law-violations, that the average observing citizen has; and his oath of office requires him not only to be one guard but to call a grand jury and witnesses to investigate any reasonable presumption of the violation of the election laws.

The active citizens in this matter of reform, are not anxious to prosecute their neighbors, at all, but vote-buying in a little city that we boast is in many other respects, is a burning shame and disgrace. However, it may as well be understood now as at any other time, that these citizens are not merely running a bluff. They are determined that vote buying in Circleville must stop.

Moving Expenses

THERE is an old saying that three moves equal a fire. It has reference to the loss sustained in frequent changes of habitation. The fall moving season is now ending and there has been an unusual amount of change in residence. This has led some to estimate the cost of this shifting of the "household goods." Gas companies, because of the peculiar position they occupy, know better than any others, possibly the extent of moving. They say that about 15 per cent of the urban population moves from one residence to another every spring and an equal number in the fall. This proportion is declared to be low for some cities but it is regarded as an average. And these changes involve expenses.

A statistician announces that expenditures for the spring moving, taking the United States as a whole, based on figures he has gathered, total over $200,000,000. Since it may be assumed that fall movings double this sum the amount of the annual tax on those who change their abode is impressive. The expense is distributed thus: $58,000,000 represents the cost of moving, $117,000,000 the cost of new furnishings, $11,000,000 goes to plumbers and fitters, another $11,000,000 is the cost of eating while in the process of moving and nearly $2,000,000 is the cost of changing meters and making other connections to fit the new homes for use. Then an equal sum will be called for next spring though possibly from different people.

The estimate would appear to constitute an irrefutable argument for ownership of homes, though home-owners at times find it necessary to change residence. Yet, the mass of movers must come from the class of persons who rent. To be under the necessity of moving frequently adds materially to the cost of living.

Morality Is Relative

IN a natural state, as men of sense agree, the natural thing is the moral thing. But when men outgrow jungle ethics and invent compassion and unselfishness, morality became a much more complicated business. It becomes and remains largely a matter of having regard for the other fellow.

By common consent, suicide is immoral. The suicide, in nearly all cases, is dodging. Yet when a man deliberately sacrifices his life to save others, which is suicide, people feel that he has been a credit to his race. The result in both cases is the same; the man is dead. But in one case his action seemed ignoble, and in the other it seemed noble because he thought only of others.

Habitual drunkenness, by common consent, is immoral. Yet if by getting drunk every day a man could render great service to society, the intemperance would seem noble regardless of what it did to the inebriate. Society frowns upon the drunk because he spends for himself the money his family needs, becomes a public nuisance and usually makes himself unfit for any useful service.

Robbing Hood was a thief, and stealing isn't moral, and yet because the gay rogue divided his spoils with the poor he remains even to this moral age a popular hero. When civilized nations appropriate to their own use the lands of a backward people the occupation is theft and nothing less. Yet, because the world benefits, society sees nothing dishonest in the business.

This is not to argue that the end always justifies the means, but only that society, in its present imperfect state, regards as moral that which seems to contribute to its own security and happiness.

Men of Submissive Souls

THE latest philosopher to discourse upon "The Psychological Differences between Man and Women" had no original or profound discovery to report. For the most part he was content to tread the well-beaten path. However, upon one novelty he ventured upon the supremacy of the wife in the home.

His theory is that the wife spends the whole day storing up energy while her husband, away from home at work all day, is using up the energy he stored up on the preceding night. Knowing that he has no chance against such accumulated energy, the husband meekly submits.

The trouble with the theory seems to be that most wives have enough calls upon their dynamic energy throughout the day that they can usually muster up a tired

CHAPTER XXXIII.
"HERE did you meet her?"

"We arranged to meet casually at an auction in an art gallery nearby. But she did not appear. Later I learned that circumstances made it impossible for her to leave the house."

"And you spent the next hour waiting for her in the art gallery?"

"I did—more than an hour."

"During that time, did any one see you who could testify to your presence there?"

"Subsequently, when Colt had these statements checked, not one person could remember having seen Doctor Maskell in the auction room."

"I did my best to remain inconspicuous."

"In that time you could have gone to Peddler's and committed the murder."

Thatcher Colt folded his arms, and said quietly: "Nevertheless, the police department will go on with the work—it does not regard this case as closed."

"They were friends, but no one could have guessed it to see them regarding each other there like antagonists preparing for a struggle."

"You will keep your ideas to yourself, unless you can prove them?" asked Dougherty uneasily.

"Absolutely—until I am ready. Will you have another glass of port, Dougherty?"

"Don't care if I do," said the District Attorney heartily.

And the two men, in spite of the tension of the moment before, were still able to clink glasses and drink. But I kept my eye on my chief and I was not surprised when he let fly a handful of parting arrows.

"Dougherty," he said, "before you can convince me of the guilt of Doctor Maskell, there are four questions you will have to answer."

"And they are?"

"Why was Geraldine Foster killed with an axe? Would it not have been simpler to shoot her, poison her—instead of all that blood-letting?"

"Why was she stripped nude, after the murder?"

"Why was the pillow case over her head?"

"Who was the mysterious woman the doctor found at the door?"

BERG AT CAMP

Gunnar H. Berg, Director of volunteer training, national council, Boy Scouts of America, will be the guest of the Central Ohio Area Council at Camp Lazarus on Saturday, October 24th. During the afternoon, the local Scoutmasters will be instructed in campcraft and hikecraft by Mr. Berg, as a part of the Training Course for Scoutmasters. Each man who attends will cook his own supper.

The evening program will be largely a reunion and get-together of Central Ohio Scouts. Mr. Berg will conduct the songs and activities at the campfire. All who have attended any training session are urged to meet Mr. Berg. Mr. Berg is one of the most experienced men in Scouting having served as Assistant Scoutmaster, Scoutmaster, Scout Commissioner, local Council President and National Scout Executive.

His experience in the field of education as High School Principal and instructor in the Washington State Normal School have accounted for his progress and leadership in the field of education.

THE LOCAL POINT OF INTEREST

At the Circleville Theatres

CLIFTONA THEATRE

There's a real chance to see the inside of something you've been aching to get the low-down on all your life. See what a "Personal Maid" sees, hear what she hears, and there's not much about the swanky swells of Gotham you'll have to wonder about.

For "Personal Maid," the revealing picture from Grace Perkins' exciting novel, is at the Cliftona

Theatre for two days, with titian-haired Nancy Carroll playing the title role. Pat O'Brien doing a self-made business man; Gene Raymond, an interesting screen new-comer, as a rollicking rich college-boy; George Fawcett happily grouch as the multi-millionaire Gary Gary, and rib-ticking Mary Boland making much of the society dowager.

"Personal Maid" is the Cinderella story made real, with Nancy sparkling in and out on her high heels. It's romance, and good fun, but, underneath it all is real drama, lightly and amusingly told, of the emotion-torn, love-muddled lives of America's millionaires.

AT THE GRAND

Revealing the fantastic plan of a warring nation to destroy its enemy in one smashing blow, "The W Plan," an unusual war film, comes to the Grand Theatre Tuesday. The film, released by Radio Pictures depicts the operations of an officer in the British Intelligence Service, during the World War.

The few war scenes and air battle sequences are said to be authentic as they were filmed under the direction of Lt.-Col. Graham Seton Hutchinson, D. S. O., M. C., who also wrote the story.

Included in the cast is a noted group of legitimate and screen actors. Heading the list of players are Brian Aherne and Madeline Carroll. Aherne has been seen in "Shooting Stars" and "Underground." Others in the cast are Gordon Barker, Gibb McLaughlin, Mary Jerrold, C. M. Hallard, Milton Rosmer, Cameron Carr, and George Merritt.

Know What and How To Feed Your Baby!

Dr. Copeland, in the First of a Series of Articles on Infant Feeding, Tells Why Proper Feeding Is a Factor in Baby's Present and Future Health

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

United States Senator from New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

A N old friend of mine used to say that babies are like watermelons—just so many are born every year, and we are glad of it. No home is complete without a baby.

One of the great problems of motherhood is to know exactly what and how to feed the baby. As a matter of fact, there is little choice in the Dr. Copeland matter.

With all the many varieties of foods at our disposal, have you ever thought what a small number of food elements there really are? In a last analysis everything we eat is included in four food elements. They are the protein, the carbohydrates, the fats, and the mineral salts. We subdivide the carbohydrates into starches and sugars.

It is true, of course, that in the one of various elements these food elements include almost all the chemical substances known to man. In one form or another, these chemical substances must be had if the body is to thrive.

If It Were Possible—

It is not possible to mix together the right proportion of these chemicals and take them in a capsule. How simple life would be if there should be a going in the house attached to a time-clock, so that its sound would announce to the householder that it was time to take a capsule. Then the mother could run to the container and carefully place the appropriate capsule in her baby's mouth.

Needless to say, the eating problem will never become so simple as this. As a matter of fact, those of us who enjoy our food would never want it to be so simple. The pleasures of the table mean too much for us to calmly accept such an innovation.

But there are other elements which are not so clearly understood.

Answers to Health Queries

Mrs. J. A. P. Q.—What causes the eyes to get sore and red?

A.—It would be wise to have your eyes examined to determine the exact cause of the trouble.

Mrs. Margaret N. Q.—Is it dangerous to take gas for having the teeth extracted?

A.—No.

OYZ. Q.—Are punctured eardrums dangerous? Will this condition heal of itself in time?

A.—You should be under the care of your doctor who will advise you definitely along these lines. It would be difficult to advise you without knowing more about the underlying circumstances. In general, I would say the condition is not dangerous.

M. M. M. Q.—What will make a child stop biting her finger nails?

A.—Paint the nails with tincture of aloe. This may help to break her of the habit.

A.—He should weigh about 149 pounds. This is about the average weight for one of this age and height as determined by examination of a large number of persons. A few pounds above or below the average is a matter of little or no significance.

LETTERS TO EDITOR

BUYING VOES

An Open Letter
Editor, Circleville Herald:—
We are sending you this open letter for publication on behalf of a large number of law-respecting, law-abiding and at the same time impatient citizens and voters of Circleville.

A number of years ago, vote-buying at from $2 to $10 per head in the country at large, was the almost universal custom. In these later days and as bitter partisanship comes more and more into disrepute, the character-degrading and law-defying custom, has gone out of fashion except in sections few and far between.

As shame-facely as the confession must be made, certain Circleville politicians appear to be among the few who have not yet heard that vote-buying is no longer in vogue; that it is not only a defiance of our election laws but renders a candidate if thus nominated or elected unfit for and ineligible to office. Moreover, it subjects the vote-buyer to prosecution, fine and imprisonment. Below, is the section, in substance, of the election laws relative to vote-buying or bribery and which it is the duty of the Prosecuting Attorney to enforce under his oath and with all due diligence:

"Whoever, before, during or after any primary convention or election, gives, lends, offers or procures or promises to give, lend, offers, procures or promise, to give money, office, employment, influence or other valuable consideration, to or for a delegate, elector or other person; or attempts by intimidation, coercion or other unlawful means, to induce such delegate or elector to register or refrain from registering, to vote or refrain from voting at a primary or an election, shall be guilty of bribery and shall upon conviction, be fined not more than $1000 or imprisoned in the penitentiary not more than three years or both. And if he be a candidate he shall forfeit the nomination and if elected he shall forfeit the office."

Now that is what we would call a pretty plain and stiff section of law; and candidates who violate it, are not only unfit to hold office but in doing so, are looking squarely into the door of the penitentiary.

It is generally and pretty well known that for several years past, vote-buying in Circleville, has been a custom of certain candidates. Recently, a body of law-abiding citizens counseled together and substantially organized to see what could be done to circumvent this unlawful, degrading and vicious practice. Naturally, these citizens expect the cooperation of the proper officials as well as law-abiding citizens, generally in this laudable undertaking of purifying our elections. It is fair to assume that the prosecutor has the same general information regarding these law-violations, that the average observing citizen has; and his oath of office requires him not only to be on guard but to call a grand jury and witnesses to investigate any reasonable presumption of the violation of the election laws.

The active citizens in this matter of reform, are not anxious to prosecute their neighbors, at all, but vote-buying in a little city that we boast of in many other respects, is a burning shame and disgrace. However, it may as well be understood now as at any other time, that these citizens are not merely running a bluff. They are determined that vote buying in Circleville must stop.

Sermon Test At Centennial Here

Following is the sermon preached Sunday evening by Rev. George Troutman at the Lutheran church centennial celebration in which he highly praises his father, Dr. G. J. Troutman, pastor of the church. It is not the policy of The Herald to publish church sermons verbatim, but for this occasion, the rule is waived.

An anniversary is always a time for joy and thanksgiving. It is a time when we look back over the years, a golden chord bending us together a certain number of days or years. Anniversaries are the peaks which stand out and overshadow the other days and years in our life as individuals or in the history of a community. When one travels through the mountains and reaches the summit of a great mountain chain, he likes to pause for a time and look back over the rocky, yet beautiful way he has traveled. So on this day we have reached a high peak in Trinity's Lutheran mountain climb in 100 years of unswerving faith. And indeed, smiles of joy and gratitude have been covering our faces this whole day as we look back and consider the blessings and benefits which have come to us during 100 years of progress. We today must exclaim with the Psalmist "This is the day which the Lord hath made, we will rejoice and be glad in it." As Samuel of old raised a stone and called the place Ebenezer at the successful conclusion of a great undertaking, so this day marks an Ebenezer in the history of this congregation and with Samuel we should say, "Hitherto hath the Lord helped us."

But Trinity members, let's not pause too long in this backward look for we have not yet reached the highest summit in Christian mountain climbing. There are days and years to come; there is a greater future in store for us. Trinity congregation has a higher, a more glorious peak to attain, a mission to fulfill toward you as members of this congregation and toward the individuals of this world's community. Not one of us has yet reached the end of our life's journey. In the tomorrow you still will be climbing. If the blessing which go out from this church, you and your children will need the instruction and comfort here given; for mountain climbing here has its many dangers. How shall we the members be able to go forth yet higher in filling Trinity's future mission? May we find the answer this evening. So let this closing service of today's 100th anniversary direct your thoughts to our future.

Members and friends, Trinity's future depends upon three essential factors. First, God; second, its pastor; third, its members. As the Holy Trinity, the third person of

AFTER 40 bowel trouble

Constipation may very easily become chronic after forty. And any continued constipation at that time of life may bring attacks of piles and a host of other unpleasant disorders.

Watch your bowels at any age. Guard them with particular care after forty. Whenever they need any help, remember a doctor should know what is best for them.

"Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin" is a doctor's prescription for the bowels. Tested by 47 years' practice, it has been found thoroughly effective in relieving constipation and its ills for men, women and children of all ages. It has proven perfectly safe even for babies. Made from fresh laxative herbs, pure pepsin and other harmless ingredients, it cannot gripe; will not sicken you or weaken you; can be used without harm as often as your breath is bad, or when your tongue is coated; whenever a headache, bilious, gassy condition warns of constipation.

conveyed. Often his style is quite cutting to the quick, but I speak as one who knows him intimately. It comes from a heart throbbing with love for everyone of us. He feels responsible to God for every soul in this congregation and I know nothing hurts him more than to see one of us slowly falling away from Jesus into some besetting sin.

It is by no means an easy task to stand before the same audience and deliver an address or sermon which is interesting and applicable to all. And we must remember he has done this not only for a year or so, but for better than 30 years. In our midst. So, on this occasion we do honor you and can only say that Trinity's future pastors will follow the example of your humble and soul-seeking ministry. May God bless you with many more ministries of successful service.

And now dear people, to assure future success let us briefly view the third side of our triangle. Namely, your duty as members. God makes it plain in His word that a great responsibility rests upon its members. In order that this church grows numerically and spiritually you must remain faithful to your confirmation vow. You are therefore duty bound to be faithful in your church attendance. As there is this temple of God every Sunday to receive worship and keep the Sabbath day holy. Those of you who are faithful in this respect are retarding our church progress. It is expected of you for our future success that you always be eager to give helping hand and contribute in all church work, for the glory of God and the salvation of souls. It is your God-given duty as a loyal member to give this church your moral support much of your time, your humble services and much of your money. And no member has a right to expect the church to attain greater heights by standing by doing nothing, while there is a temporal or spiritual war.

And finally, brethren, if this church is to grow, I implore everyone of you that your prayers be not lacking for her. Let there be less critical fault finding and more earnest prayer, less growling and complaining and more supplication at the throne of God. For a praying congregation will be a successful congregation. We, as pastors, cannot feel the need of your prayers, so carry us in your heart before the throne of God imploring Him to bless us with increased wisdom and strength and faith to carry on this great work. I expect to pray more fervently for you for only by communally we can expect His blessing and assistance.

FARM BUREAU NEWS LETTER

The tax burden of Ohio farmers has been eased, according to L. B. Palmer, president of the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation, in a communication to the Pickaway County Farm Bureau, but much more remains to be done.

"The Farm Bureau has consistently worked for a reduction of the tax assessed against abutting property and has actively participated in the passage of legislation which removed entirely the assessments against abutting property on state highways. This has been made effective on all roads except those in the eight large-city counties," Mr. Palmer says, "and the courts of Ohio have held such assessments in those counties to be in conflict with that provision of the state constitution which requires all laws of general nature to be uniformly operative throughout the state."

"The next session of the legislature should pass laws that would eliminate all assessments for road building purposes. Adequate funds for construction and maintenance of all roads should be received from the motor cars, both passenger and commercial, which use these roads. This would be a real tax relief for real estate."

Mr. Palmer calls attention to an organization recently incorporated, the purpose of which is to work for passage of legislation authorizing the refunding of taxes assessed against abutting property owners on state highways. Mr. Palmer points out that at the last session of the legislature, bills designed to accomplish this purpose were passed by both houses and later vetoed by the Governor after they had been ruled unconstitutional by the Attorney General. A new organization, he says, required prospective members to pay in three per cent

Local Druggists Supplied With Free Sample Packages Of Two New Vick Products

Desire of Makers That Every User of Vicks VapoRub Have a Free Trial of New Vicks Nose and Throat Drops and Vicks Medicated Cough Drops.

RESULT OF RESEARCH

New Discovery Makes Possible New Vick Plan Of Home-Control of Colds.

REDUCES "COLDS-TAX"

A quarter century ago Vicks Vapo-Rub introduced the modern and better method of treating colds—externally. Now, Vicks Chemists develop a new preparation—Vicks Nose & Throat Drops—based on a new idea in preventing colds. A perfect ally to Vapo-Rub, it makes possible the new Vick Plan for better Control of Colds in the home—and further reduction of the family "Colds-Tax."

1.—Before a Cold Starts. On exposure to colds or any of the causes that ordinarily lead to colds—(crowded indoor places—stuffy, poorly ventilated rooms—sudden temperature changes—wet and cold)—that slow down the normal functioning of the nose, Nature's marvelous "first line of defense against colds"—use Vicks Drops promptly. Or, if a cold actually threatens—when you feel that first stuffy, sneezy irritation of the nasal passages—a few drops up each nostril, and many annoying colds will be avoided. 2.—When a Cold Strikes. Use the convenient Vicks Drops during the day—anytime, any place—as often as needed for comfort and relief. At bedtime, rub Vicks VapoRub well over throat and chest and cover with warm flannel. Leave bed-clothing loose around the neck so the medicated vapors can be inhaled all night long. This Vick Plan gives you a full 24-hour treatment. (If there is a cough, you will like another new Vick product—Vicks Cough Drops—actually medicated with ingredients of Vicks VapoRub).

In order that every user of Vicks VapoRub may try the two new Vick products now being introduced, a supply of free trial packages of each has been sent to every druggist in the United States. Go to your druggist today and ask for yours. If, by any chance his supply is exhausted, send us the top of a Vicks Vapo-Rub carton—or coupon from the VapoRub directions folder—and we will mail free samples direct to you, together with a folder on the new Vick Plan for Control of Colds in the home. These expelled irritants are not present in your LUCKY STRIKE. They're out—so they can't be in! No wonder LUCKIES are always kind to your throat.

Sermon Test At Centennial Here

Following is the sermon preached Sunday evening by Rev. George Troutman at the Lutheran church centennial celebration in which he highly praises his father, Dr. G. J. Troutman, pastor of the church. It is not the policy of The Herald to publish church sermons verbatim, but for this occasion, the rule is waived.

An anniversary is always a time for joy and thanksgiving. It is, as we were, a golden chord bending to other certain number of days or years. Anniversaries are the peaks which stand out and over-shadow other days and years in our life as individuals in the history of a community. When one travels through the mountains and reaches the summit of a great mountain chain, he likes to pause for a time and look back over that rocky, yet beautiful, ascent he has traveled. So on this day we have reached a high peak in Trinity's Lutheran mountain climb in 100 years of upward marching and indeed, a time of joy and gratitude have been covering our faces this whole day as we look back and over the blessings and benefits which have come to us during 100 years of our existence. As Samuel of old raised a stone and called the place Ebenezer at the successful conclusion of a great undertaking so this day marks an Ebenezer in the history of this congregation and with Samuel we should say, "Hitherto hath the Lord helped us."

But Trinity members, let's not pause too long in this backward look for we have not as yet reached the highest summit in the Christian mountain climbing. There are days and years to come; there is a great future in store for us. Trinity congregation has a higher, a more glorious peak to attain; a mission to fulfill toward you, members of this congregation and toward the individuals of this whole community. Not one of us has as yet reached the end of our life's journey. In the tomorrow you still will be in need of the blessings which we have reached the end of our life's journey. And your children will need the instruction and comfort here given; for mountain climbing to Heaven has its many dangers. How shall we the members be able to go forward, yet higher in filling Trinity's future mission? May we find the answer this evening. So let this closing service of today's 100th anniversary direct your thoughts to our future.

Members and friends, Trinity's future depends upon the essential factors: first, God; second, its pastor; third, its members. As the Holy Trinity, the third person of the Godhead, are inseparable all three are needed in the plan of salvation so with this church, these three essential factors namely, God, its pastors, and members are inseparable, all are needed. Our future progress depends not simply upon one or two but all three of these factors. These three factors are like the three sides of a triangle, remove anyone of the sides and the triangle ceases to be. Let either the pastors fail in their duty of that members fail, or God turn against Trinity church and its future success ceases to be. Let us take as our theme "The Triangular Factors for Trinity's Future."

First, the most important, the basic factor, in upward climbing is God. All success depends upon God's blessings. Therefore we call to the basic line of our triangle God's for he is the very foundation of our future success. "Unless the Lord build the house, they labor in vain that build it." If we build our church in the future upon God we cannot fail. Jesus says, "the gates of Hell shall not prevail against it." For God will be with us and will build us up numerically and spiritually. Trinity has experienced great prosperity in the past because it stayed close to God, excluding secular and social tendency from its church services. Brethren let's not continue to stand fast in Faith to Him, pleading for God's blessings, God's guidance for without Him we can do nothing. May we apply the truthfulness of Lincoln's masterly statement "That the most important question is not whether God is on our side but that we be sure that we are on God's side."

Now let us view the second side of the triangular factors, Trinity's future, namely the pastor and pastor's duties. God reveals in His word that you as faithful child of Christ have a right to expect certain things of your ministers, and these are plainly indicated in the word of God. Now to some, this might seem to be a heavy place, that they preach the word of God in its purity. Now to some, this might seem to be a heavy place, that they preach the word of God in its truth and purity in all churches and from all pulpits. No we do not. We do not mean to pick up the paper on Saturday and read the subjects to be discussed on Sunday. Often times, politics in its various forms, the events of the day discussed. Such preaching might be regarded popular among men but it is not so in the sight of God. For he says, "Preach Christ and Him crucified at all times in season and out of season." My people we as your present pastors do not intend to be popular preachers among you, we do not care to glorify ourselves, but to glorify God, by cultivating in ourselves and you a yearning passion for the lost and endangered souls. We have no intention of being smooth speakers, and preach what men like to hear rather than what they ought to hear. But we have determined to preach Christ and Him crucified, because there is no other salvation. "There is no other name under Heaven given among men whereby we must be saved." I am fully aware it requires no little faith and courage for ministers to stand up today against all the pretensions of destructive higher criticism and to continue to preach the old Gospel of sin, of redemption, of atonement and of salvation through repentance and Faith in a crucified Christ. But this we have resolved, we have promised God to do. You have a right to expect this of your pastor for future success. May God help us that our church may not follow in the steps of so many other denominations. May God so guard this pulpit that nothing but the word of the Holy be spoken here. May God so help us that we never will resort to sensational topics, not based on the word of God merely to interest people and fill this church. No, we have the word, the pure word, and we believe every available of it, and for our future success we intend to preach it from page to page for the glory of God and the salvation of souls in this community.

And since you expect and have a right to expect that we preach nothing but the word of God, therefore you can be assured that both law and gospel will be proclaimed. Law in that we plainly point out your sins; admonish when in wrong, warn when confronted with temptations, showing that sin arouses the wrath of God, which punishes in Hell. And my people even if at times we speak very plain, outspoken and our word cut the most tender spot within you, be assured no malice, no hatred is therein contained, but it comes from hearts filled with love for your soul, for the glory of God and guarding your soul from Hell.

And since we are duty bound as Lutheran ministers to preach the word of God, you can likewise expect the sweet gospel to be proclaimed. That healing balm to sick souls which tells of our compassionate Savior Jesus Christ, who was crucified, dead and buried, who wants to cleanse that soul though it be like scarlet red, to make it whiter than snow, for the blood of Jesus Christ cleanseth us from all sin.

For Trinity's future you have a teach your children. For Jesus not only said, "Feed my sheep but also feed my lambs." Like true shepherds of Jesus we must do our part in preparing your children for the judgment day so that they will not be lost but saved.

Yes for Trinity's future, it is our duty, to go after the erring, to strengthen the weak, to warn those in danger, to lift up those who are fallen down, to comfort those who are afflicted, to instruct the ignorant, and in general to do the work of the 1200 souls of this congregation to the glory of God alone.

And as ministers, as leaders in this congregation we must practice that which we preach and teach. You have a right to require of us for Trinity's future that we be living examples of Godliness and Christian piety. May God give us strength so to do. Oh my people as I think of my many duties as a faithful minister being so many and so difficult, I must cry to God and say, "I am not sufficient for these things, help me Lord Jesus." And were it not that I hear the voice of Jesus saying "My Grace is sufficient for thee for my strength is made perfect through weakness." I would never have had the courage to assume the fearful responsibilities that rest upon a Lutheran minister.

And now dear people before taking up our third side of our triangle, I desire but for a moment to go back into the past and add a striking fact which was not brought out in this morning's service. And what I now am about to say is not being said because he is my father, but in the attitude of one Christian observing another. Is it not proper and right for us on this occasion to pay due homage to that one who has served this congregation better than one third of this 100 years of progress? And we today do rejoice with you in the fact that God has blessed you with such a record. To me you have been an ideal in so many ways especially after studying for the ministry. I have regarded you as my model in preaching and as a humble yet diligent pastor, yearning passion for a lost and endangered soul. This yearning passion for the soul, dear members, results in his ability to address his audience in straight forward, distinct, and impressive terms so that even a child is able to comprehend the message conveyed. Often his style is quite cutting to the sinner but speak to one who knows him intimately, it comes from a heart throbbing with love for everyone of us. He feels responsible to God for every soul in this congregation and I know nothing hurts him more than to see one of us slowly falling away from Jesus into some besetting sin.

It is by no means an easy task to stand before the same audience from two to five times a week and deliver an address or sermon which is interesting and applicable to all. And we must remember he has done this not only for a year or so, but for better than 33 years in our midst. So, on this occasion we do honor you and can only say that Trinity's future pastors may well follow the example of your humble and soul-seeking ministry. May God bless you with many more more years of successful service.

And now dear people, to assure future success let us briefly view the third side of our triangle. Namely, your duty as members. God makes it plain in His word that a great responsibility rests upon its members. In order that this church grows numerically and spiritually, you must remain faithful to your confession of faith. You are therefore duty bound to be faithful in your church attendance, come to this temple of God every Sunday to truly worship and keep the Sabbath Day Holy. Those of you who are unfaithful in this respect are retarding our church progress. It is expected of you for our future success that you always be eager to give a helping hand and cooperate in all church work, for the glory of God and the salvation of souls. It is also expected of you as a loyal member to give this church your moral support much of your time, your humble service and much of your money. And no member has a right to expect this church to attain greater heights by standing by doing nothing either in a financial or spiritual way.

And finally, Brethren, if this church is to grow, I implore everyone of you, that your prayers be not lacking for her. Let there be less critical fault finding and more earnest prayer, less growling and complaining and more supplication at the throne of God. For a praying congregation will be a successful congregation. We as pastors, certainly feel the need of your prayers, so carry us in your heart before the throne of God imploring Him to bless us with necessary wisdom and strength and Faith to ward on this great work.

Pray fervently for you for only by communing in fervent prayer can we expect His divine blessing and assistance. So, let us on this centennial occasion in spirit rededicate our church edifice as well as reconsecrate ourselves to the glory of God. Let come what will, our future progress will be certain. And may we always keep in mind this simple figure, namely the triangle: God our basic line, and we the pastors and you the members the two sides, always resting upon God and ever climbing upward, until finally, Brethren, we reach the highest peak of Christian mountain climbing, namely Heaven. Oh, may God grant that all Trinity members will be present to share those eternal joys of that greatest of all anniversaries.

FARM BUREAU NEWS LETTER

The tax burden of Ohio farmers has been eased, according to L. B. Palmer, president of the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation, in a communication to the Pickaway County Farm Bureau, but much more remains to be done.

"The Farm Bureau has consistently worked for a reduction of the tax assessed against abutting property and has actively participated in the passage of legislation which removed entirely the assessments against abutting property on state highways. This has been made effective on all roads except those in the eight large-city counties," Mr. Palmer says, "and the courts of Ohio have held such assessments in those counties to be in conflict with that provision of the state constitution which requires all laws of general nature to be uniformly operative throughout the state."

"The next session of the legislature should pass laws that would eliminate all assessments for road building purposes. Adequate funds for construction and maintenance of all roads should be received from the motor cars, both passenger and commercial, which use these roads. This would be a real tax relief for real estate."

Mr. Palmer calls attention to an organization recently incorporated, the purpose of which is to work for passage of legislation authorizing the refunding of taxes assessed against abutting property owners on state highways. Mr. Palmer points out that at the last session of the legislature, bills designed to accomplish this purpose were passed by both houses and later vetoed by the Governor after they had been ruled unconstitutional by the Attorney General. A new organization, he says, required prospective members to pay in three per cent

How American Fashion Creator Is Winning Spotlight from Paris

Elizabeth Hawes Sees Skyscrapers as Fashion Sermons in Stone and Is Inspired to Introduce Styles Modeled After Cloud-Piercing Giants.

Do you see any relation between these charming gowns and the Empire State Building? According to Miss Elizabeth Hawes, the brilliant young American designer, skyscrapers are proving a definite inspiration for women's clothes. Above are two of her original models. The distinguished yet very wearable gown at the left is for dining at home. It is of black striped chiffon cut on extremely flattering lines. "Sir Galahad," at right, is of white chiffon over gold lace. The metal link belt is one of the new notes Miss Hawes sponsors. Heading her own establishment in New York, Miss Hawes is a petite and pretty Vassar graduate who startled the fashion world by exhibiting her own collection of original models in Paris.

Local Druggists Supplied With Free Sample Packages Of Two New Vick Products

Desire of Makers That Every User of Vicks VapoRub Have a Free Trial of New Vicks Nose and Throat Drops and Vicks Medicated Cough Drops.

RESULT OF RESEARCH New Discovery Makes Possible New Vick Plan Of Home-Control of Colds.

REDUCES "COLDS - TAX" A quarter century ago Vicks Vapo-Rub introduced the modern and better method of treating colds—externally. Now, Vicks Chemists develop a new preparation—Vicks Nose & Throat Drops—based on a new idea in preventing colds. A perfect ally to Vapo-Rub, it makes possible the new Vick Plan for better Control of Colds in the home—and further reduction of the family "Colds-Tax."

L.—Before a Cold Starts. On exposure to colds or any of the causes that ordinarily lead to colds—(crowded indoor places—stuffy, poorly ventilated rooms—sudden temperature changes—wet and cold)—that slow down the normal functioning of the nose. Nature's marvelous "first line of defense against colds"—use Vicks Drops promptly. Or, if a cold actually threatens—when you feel that first stuffy, sneezy irritation of the nasal passages—a few drops up each nostril, and many annoying colds will be avoided.

2.—When a Cold Strikes. Use the convenient Vicks Drops during the day—anytime, any place—as often as needed for comfort and relief. At bedtime, rub Vicks VapoRub well over throat and chest and cover with warm flannel. Leave bed-clothing loose around the neck so the medicated vapors can be inhaled all night long. This Vick Plan gives you a full 24-hour treatment. (If there is a cough, you will like another new Vick product—Vicks Cough Drops—actually medicated with ingredients of Vicks VapoRub).

Trial Packages Free. In order that every user of Vicks VapoRub may try the two new Vick products now being introduced, a supply of free trial packages of each has been sent to every druggist in the United States. Go to your druggist today and ask for yours. If, by any chance his supply is exhausted, send us the top of a Vicks Vapo-Rub carton—or coupon from the VapoRub directions folder—and we will mail free samples direct to you, together with a folder on the new Vick Plan for Control of Colds in the home. AFTER 40 bowel trouble

Constipation may very easily become chronic after forty. And any continued constipation at that time of life may bring attacks of piles and a host of other unpleasant disorders.

Watch your bowels at any age. Guard them with particular care after forty. Whenever they need any help, remember a doctor should know what is best for them.

"Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin" is a doctor's prescription for the bowels. Tested by 47 years' practice, it has been found thoroughly effective in relieving constipation and its ills for men, women and children of all ages. It has proven perfectly safe even for babies. Made from fresh laxative herbs, pure pepsin and other harmless ingredients, it cannot gripe; will not sicken you or weaken you; can be used without harm as often as your breath is bad, or when your tongue is coated; whenever a headachy, bilious, gassy condition warns of constipation.

Marysville "11" Is Here Friday

For the first time this year with the exception of their opening contest with Walnut-twp, Circleville high school's gridiron machine will have its full power Friday afternoon when it is scheduled to meet Marysville on the local field. Heretofore there have always been several players absent by reason of injuries but this week Coach Pete Herberholz expects to start a complete lineup.

At a recent inter-class game someone remarked that if the high school team would have as much enthusiasm and energy in attempts to win inter-scholastic games, such as it had that evening, it would really go places. Coach Herberholz believes that his team actually has much more pep and vigor this week than ever before and to keep this idea in fact the team is undergoing strenuous workouts every night.

Several members of the team accompanied Mentor Herberholz to the Marysville-Grandview clash at Marysville last Friday.

Last year the Tigers lost a contest to the Kingsmore-coached team at Marysville by the score of 13-0 and this year are naturally out for revenge.

The fracas is scheduled to begin at 3 p. m. Friday. Circleville high school's band will be on hand again and the occasion will be a lively one.

The second inter-class game between the seniors and the underclassmen was not played this evening as scheduled. The underclassmen defeated the seniors by the score of 7-6 last week, and the fourth year lads were after quick revenge but Coach Herberholz announced today that the contest would not be played until after the season.

At this time only eligible candidates will be permitted to play. No "quitters" will be allowed to take part he stated.

For reasons unknown, George Hies, quarterback, has dropped from the squad. As yet the coach has not been officially notified of his reason for non-participation.

Frank Dunlap is expected to be in the lineup Friday, that is "if all the wheat is planted out on the farm" Frank says. It was planned to show in the Lancaster and Grandview game that Frank's as-stance touched up the line. Lill Hegeler, who was forced to drop from the last two weeks as the result of a cracked rib will probably be seen in action again this week. Bill, injured, have healed and he has been practicing the past week.

Coach Herberholz has worked out a number of new plays and has given each candidate a copy of them. He hopes to have some perfected by Friday.

OHIO VS. CINCI.

ATHENS.—The watchword at Ohio University this week is "Go to Cinny."

Coach Peden and his Bobcats will invade the fair of the Cincinnati Bearcats next Saturday in an effort to make it four straight in their latest winning streak. Indiana University stopped the Ohioans earlier this year after they had registered nineteen victories.

Since losing to the Hoosiers, 7 to 6, in the season's opener, the Bobcats have blanked Butler, Denison and Simpson in successive games. The Ohioans have scored a total of 101 points to 7 for their opponents this year. The Big Ten team being the only one thus far to tally against them.

Against Cincinnati Saturday the Ohio coaches will probably be able to master their greatest strength since the Indiana game. Kepler, a halfback, who received a broken nose, returned to the lineup against Simpson last week. Christman, star guard, is expected to be sufficiently recovered from a leg infection to go to his post if need be. No new injuries resulted from the Simpson contest.

A special train will carry the Green and White "migration day" crowd and Ohio's 100-piece band to the Queen City.

Navy to Hunt "Tiger" at Princeton

When the Navy gridsters meet up with their old Princetonian rivals at Princeton, on October 24, they will march out on the field with the amiable intention of repeating the awful shellacking they handed out the Tigers last year. The score on that occasion was 31-0, and the most optimistic of the sailors look to a similar count this year. In Captain Tuttle, the Navy has a skipper of outstanding ability and with a ball-carrier like Campbell and a kicker of Kane's sterling worth at his command, the future admirals from Annapolis see no reason why the Tiger's tail should not be twisted, and twisted hard. However, the Princetonians have their own views on the matter, and their Captain Yeckley has more than a nodding acquaintance with grid strategy. One of the best shots in the Tiger locker is Jack, whose punning has made him a force with which to be reckoned.

BUCKS BEGIN HARD WORK FOR INVADING NORTHWESTERN '11

Spirit of Confidence Exists as Victorious Gridgers Go Through Drill in Preparation For Most Important Game on 1931 Schedule; Squad Come Through Michigan Tilt in Good Shape.

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 20.—Instead of the familiar "Beat Michigan," a rejuvenated bunch of Scarlet and Gray warriors at Ohio State University are tearing into practice chanting "Beat Northwestern" and although the Statesmen will again be the underdogs in this coming Saturday's fray, a long-lacking spirit of confidence was felt over all the campus today.

Ohio State football teams always noted by their fight, but when a Buckeye eleven goes down to ignominious defeat one Saturday, 26-21, and comes back the following week-end to defeat a Michigan team 20-7, the capital city is theirs for the asking. Which fact is proven by the announcement by Henry L. Taylor, director of ticket sales at the stadium Monday, which declared that the advance sale of tickets indicates a crowd of at least 35,000 will fill into the horse-shoe Saturday.

VARSITY DRILLS

The first-stringers were sent through a light drill last evening. A short signal practice, a brief kicking-off session and a "dummy" drill with the freshmen, who were running Northwestern plays, was the substance of the regular work.

The varsity members who were not called upon at Michigan last week were sent through a scrimmage session with the white-jerseyed reserves, who defeated the Ann Arbor second-stringers here Saturday, 6-0. Embrey and Keefe were the outstanding members of the "varsity 11" during the mixing.

Marshal Oliphant, quarterback, who was injured in the Cincinnati game two weeks ago, was back on the field, but he didn't do much work. He was still nursing his injured leg.

Maestro Sam Williams devoted his time solely to the second stringers, while Don Miller, backfield coach, took charge of the varsity.

LINEUP SAME

The lineup that faced Michigan was sent through signal drill. This included Gilman and Nasman, ends; Hadrach and Bell, tackles; Varner and Gailus, guards; Smith at center; Cramer, quarterback; Hinchman and Capt. Holcomb, halfbacks; and Vuchinich at fullback. Carroll and Grady, halfbacks, and Wolaver, fullback, and Ferrall, end, followed the first center through the plays.

A check-up of injuries suffered in the Saturday game showed that Capt. Stu Holcomb and Ed. Bob Hadrach were the only two who received anything like serious injuries. Holcomb lost several teeth, had a couple loosened, and received a badly-cut mouth which required four stitches but he was out practicing yesterday. Hadrach's head came in contact with a Michigan shoe, but he was none the worse for the thump today.

Ted Rosequist, giant tackle, was not available for the regular work. It was announced that the university last evening, many Buckeye football players will be back on the field today, though he is still nursing a sore ankle.

A scrimmage between the varsity and the freshmen was expected to take place today at 7 p. m.

A band of football players from the University of Michigan will arrive in Columbus today for the game.

The game will be played at 2 p. m. Saturday at the stadium.

merce Commission and the Ohio commission issued a decision reducing rates approximately 15 per cent, but before the reduced rates became effective the railroads were successful in reopening the case for further hearing.

Henry S. Ballard, attorney for the Ohio Farm Bureau, handled the case for that organization with the help of Mr. Long, Fertilizer companies and the Michigan, Indiana and American Farm Bureaus joined with the Ohio Farm Bureau in the second hearing, with the result that the second and final decision in July 1928 reduced the general level of fertilizer rates in the entire territory about 20 per cent, or an average of $1.00 per ton.

Now, according to Mr. Ballard, after a total of 1250 pages of typewritten testimony and 175 exhibits have been submitted, it will be up to the Federal government to defend the decision of the Interstate Commerce Commission—and the battle will be on again.

Senator Jim Watson predicts another tariff boost for business. If can have it if he can find the business.

Meet In Buckeye Feature

DELAWARE, O.—Two of the flashiest backfield men in Ohio will be pitted against one another here Saturday when Ohio Wesleyan and Miami meet in the first "crucial" game of the Buckeye conference season. The contest features Ohio Wesleyan's annual homecoming program.

Edgar Westfall, Dayton, Bishop's halfback, and Wilbur Cartwright, Miamisburg, Miami sensation, are the men on whom their respective coaches, George Gauthier and Chester Pittser, are banking their hopes for victory.

Westfall has run wild in Ohio Wesleyan's three games to date. Against Heidelberg he scored two touchdowns and lost another 55-yard run because of a penalty. Against Syracuse he ran 51 yards through the entire Orange team, and against Denison he made three touchdowns, bringing victory to a losing Bishop team.

But Cartwright, too, has been playing outstanding football. Last year in the Wesleyan game he made all of Miami's three touchdowns on sensational runs of 91, 80 and 30 yards, but Miami lost, 23 to 20.

This year he's again blazing his way to recognition as a great runner my similar dashes.

Miami and Ohio Wesleyan are tied with Ohio and Delaware for the conference leadership, each having won its only conference contest to date. The winner of Saturday's tussle will rank with Ohio as favorite for the championship.

At Cleveland—Billy Wallace, Cleveland lightweight, defeated Lou Severo, Philadelphia (6).

At Baltimore—Jack Portney, Baltimore welterweight, given decision over Mickey Diamond, Philadelphia, after referee held the fight was unsatisfactory and halted the bout (5).

merce Commission and the Ohio commission issued a decision reducing rates approximately 15 per cent, but before the reduced rates became effective the railroads were successful in reopening the case for further hearing.

Henry S. Ballard, attorney for the Ohio Farm Bureau, handled the case for that organization with the help of Mr. Long, Fertilizer companies and the Michigan, Indiana and American Farm Bureaus joined with the Ohio Farm Bureau in the second hearing, with the result that the second and final decision in July 1928 reduced the general level of fertilizer rates in the entire territory about 20 per cent, or an average of $1.00 per ton.

Now, according to Mr. Ballard, after a total of 1250 pages of typewritten testimony and 175 exhibits have been submitted, it will be up to the Federal government to defend the decision of the Interstate Commerce Commission—and the battle will be on again.

Senator Jim Watson predicts another tariff boost for business. He can have it if he can find the business.

The Empress Eugenie hat has become so popular it is becoming unpopular. But that's not news.

In 1926 both the Interstate Commerce Commission and the Ohio commission issued a decision reducing rates approximately 15 per cent, but before the reduced rates became effective the railroads were successful in reopening the case for further hearing.

Meet In Buckeye Feature

DELAWARE, O.,—Two of the flashiest backfield men in Ohio will be pitted against one another here Saturday when Ohio Wesleyan and Miami meet in the first "crucial" game of the Buckeye conference season. The contest features Ohio Wesleyan's annual homecoming program.

Edgar Westfall, Dayton, Bishop's halfback, and Wilbur Cartwright, Miamisburg, Miami sensation, are the men on whom their respective coaches, George Gauthier and Chester Pittser, are banking their hopes for victory.

Westfall has run wild in Ohio Wesleyan's three games to date. Against Heidelberg he scored two touchdowns and lost another 55-yard run because of a penalty. Against Syracuse he ran 51 yards through the entire Orange team, and against Denison he made three touchdowns, bringing victory to a losing Bishop team.

But Cartwright, too, has been playing outstanding football. Last year in the Wesleyan game he made all of Miami's three touchdowns on sensational runs of 91, 90 and 80 yards, but Miami lost, 23 to 20. This year he's again blazing his way to recognition as a "great runner" my similar dashes.

Miami and Ohio Wesleyan are tied with Ohio and DePaul for the conference leadership each having won its only conference contest to date. The winner of Saturday's tussle will rank with Ohio as favorite for the championship.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT TO THE CONSTITUTION OF OHIO.
Proposing to amend the constitution of Ohio by adopting a section to be designated as section 2b of Article VIII of said constitution for the purpose of authorizing the contracting of bonds by the state in an aggregate amount not exceeding seven million five hundred thousand dollars to supply funds for the construction and repair of buildings, the equipment and furnishing thereof, and the purchase of land for the use of the welfare institutions of the state; and to that end authorizing the issuance of bonds and paying the interest and principal thereof.
Amount of Bonds Authorized to be issued $7,500,000.
Maximum Rate of Interest 5% Per Annum.
(These Bonds to be issued between November 4, 1931, and July 1, 1932.)
Be it resolved by the General Assembly of the State of Ohio, that all the members elected to each house thereof agreeing thereto:
Section 1. There shall be submitted to the electors of the State of Ohio, for their approval or rejection, at the general election to be held after the first Monday of November, 1931, a proposal to amend the constitution of Ohio by adopting a section to be designated as section 2b of article VIII of said constitution, reading as follows:
ARTICLE VIII.
Section 2b. "The Commissioners of the Sinking Fund" created in this article shall have authority upon the adoption of this amendment, proceed to issue and sell at public sale, from time to time, under such regulations as they may by order promulgate, for not less than par and accrued interest, not to exceed the total sum of seven million five hundred thousand dollars of bonds of the State of Ohio, bearing interest at not to exceed five per cent per annum, payable semi-annually and maturing in ten equal annual installments commencing not later than the first day of January, 1934, and not earlier than eighteen months after the issuance of any such bonds. No such bonds shall be issued to mature later than the first day of January, 1943. The proceeds of the sale of such bonds shall be paid into the treasury of the State of Ohio to the credit of a fund to be known as "The State Welfare Rehabilitation Fund." Said fund shall be expended without appropriation by the General Assembly, but subject to approval and allotment by the emergency board, for the purpose of supplying funds as determined by the director of public welfare, for the construction and repair of buildings, the equipment and furnishing thereof, and the purchase of land for the use of existing or new welfare and penal institutions of the state and for no other purpose. For the payment of the interest on such bonds and the installments of principal thereof, as the same mature, and to meet the expenses of administration hereof, any fund or funds in the state treasury, available by law for appropriation for the purposes for which said bonds shall have been issued shall, without appropriation by the General Assembly, be paid out upon the order of the said "The Commissioners of the Sinking Fund" to the extent necessary; but the General Assembly may make appropriations for such purposes out of any such funds, which appropriations so made shall be first exhausted, before any unappropriated moneys shall be so withdrawn. The full faith and credit of the State of Ohio is hereby pledged for the payment of said bonds. Upon the retirement of all said bonds and the payment of all the interest thereon said "The Commissioners of the Sinking Fund" shall render a final report to the General Assembly. The provisions of this section shall be self-executing.
Section 2. The secretary of state, in the manner provided by law, shall prescribe the form of the ballots to be used at the election mentioned in section 1 hereof for the submission of the proposal therein provided for; and said ballots shall distinctly state the amount of bonds authorized to be issued, the period within which they may be issued, the maximum rate of interest thereon and the purpose for which the same are to be used.
Adopted, June 25, 1931.

FIRST DEGREE

in Huntington, Carper parked the automobile and crossed the street to talk to a man who, he told his friend, on returning to the car, was his father.

When Hunt was questioned by Fairfield co. officers, his description of the man seen in Huntington did not tally with that of Mr. Carper. Most damaging to young Carper's first story, however, was Hunt's testimony regarding the date of the trip. The Carper youth had said they left for Huntington on July 29th; Hunt's story fixed the date a week later August 5th, the day after the murder. Hunt did not remember the exact date, but knew it was the day following was to start at his father's farm. Hunt's father did not remember either, but after painstaking effort, Sheriff Sessler got in touch with the man who owned the threshing machine and he verified the date conclusively.

DESERVE CREDIT
Sheriff Sessler, Deputy Belhorn and Prosecutor Cunningham deserve great credit for their tireless efforts to solve this murder mystery which occurred in Fairfield county, although all those involved are Ross County residents.

Prosecutor Cunningham said this afternoon he would file first degree murder charge against young Carper in view of the signed confession. It is probable that the youth will plead self-defense, as he says in his confession that his father intended to kill him. He also says that his father ill-treated the rest of the family, once striking the oldest son on the head with such force that he was confined to the hospital for several days on account of the blow.

This older son, Golden Carper, and a son-in-law of the deceased, William Lewis Day, who were arrested at the same time as the younger son, were released today after the confession had been made.

HUNT KIDNAPPERS OF POST MASTER
GLOUster, O., Oct. 20—After an all-day relentless search, authorities were without trace today of the five bandits who kidnaped H. F. MAN ELECTROCUTED FOR THREE DEATHS
CHESTER, Ill., Oct. 20—"So long boys."

These were the final words of the first person ever to be electrocuted at Chester penitentiary. Early today Marley Johnson, 25, of Mattoon, Ill., confessed murder of a woman and her two children died in the electric chair. Johnson, who was convicted July 3, 1931, of killing Mrs. Carrie Bowers, and her two children, Delmar and Joe, continued his defiant attitude to the very last minute.

OFFICIALS HELD IN MINE STRIKE
ATHENS, O., Oct. 20—Two officials of the Ohio District of United Mine Workers and twelve miners were held under bond today on charges arising from their activities in a mine strike a month ago.

Lee Hall, president, and David Watkins, vice president of the Ohio district of the mine workers' organization and the twelve Millfield miners pleaded not guilty yesterday to indictments charging them with inciting to riot and assault.

The indictments were returned by the county grand jury after an investigation of disorders in a Millfield mine strike in September.

GRABLE IS JAILED
Lloyd Grable, husband of Miranda Hill Grable, police court character, is being held in the county jail after being fined $10 and costs by Mayor B. T. Hedges and sentenced to the jail for 10 days. Grable was charged with threatening John Bates of Logan-t, with a knife.

He was arrested by Officer Will McCrady and Ray Smith.

BEHIND the SCENE In HOLLYWOOD

By HARRISON CARROL
HOLLYWOOD, Cal.—Motion pictures and the stock market have made Rod La Rocque a rich man. Today, in semi-retirement, he dedicates his time to scientific work. Rod is no dilettante, either. The famous Dr. Robert Millikan is his good friend. Many distinguished men of science are guests at his home.

Right now Rod is building a telescope for Conrad Nagel's little daughter, Ruth. Within the last six days he has spent 84 hours and 2 minutes grinding the speculum, which will magnify 192 times. Before the instrument is finished, an ordinary Ford axle will be put to use in some mysterious fashion.

This is the fourth telescope Rod has made. One similar to his present model is set up at his mountain cabin.

The mechanics of photography are another hobby of Rod's. He builds cameras as handsily as the average man changes film.

Valma Banky, now completely resigned to retirement from pictures, is an expert at handling a wood-nath.

It is rather remarkable that Rod has educated himself in science. In his boyhood, lack of money prevented him even from finishing high school.

Would he like to go back into pictures? Perhaps. But in the meanwhile, he has his hobby to rescue him from boredom.

PROFESSIONAL PRIDE
They are tending about a panhandler who asked a Hollywood actor to give him a dime for coffee.

Just as he reached into his pocket, the actor looked across the street and saw a sign: "Coffee, 5 cents." He handed the man a nickel and pointed to the sign. "See that over there?" he said. "You won't need a dime."

"Okay," sneered the panhandler. "Give me the nickel, but don't tell me how to run my business."

LATEST GOSSIP
George E. Stone, the actor, recently talked a hold-up man out of taking a watch which was the gift of his mother. "If you'll come to Warner Brothers tomorrow he promised, 'I'll give you $25.00. Naturally, the man didn't come. But two nights later, as George stepped out of a Hollywood restaurant, the same bandit popped out of a doorway. "Well," he inquired, "how about the dough?"

George paid. Since she is going to New York, Ina Claire has given George Cukor her patio furniture to use in his new house. Hear that Robert Ames also is going to New York to do a play. Quite a coincidence. Several casualties have resulted from Doug Fairbanks' back-lot football. George Marshall, director of the Bobby Jones shorts, is going around on crutches, and Dick Hyland, of all people, cracked two ribs.

Since Doug Jr. went back to work, the season is over. He owned the ball. It's a positive fact that a girl was bathing in the nude at the exclusive Santa Monica film colony beach. But don't get excited. It was only Marlen Dietrich's 6-year-old daughter, Maria. It seems the child escaped the watchful eye of a nurse and reverted to an old German custom. Claudette Colbert is back here today for a vacation. by means of stethoscopes and other hocus pocus, Paramount has recouped Fredric March's heart-beats for a thrill in "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde."

AND NOT SO MUCH OF THAT.
It was Harry Brand who said that two of the original song writers are still out here, and they are still writing — insurance.

NILS TO WORK
One hears that Nils Asther will at last get a part when M. G. M. starts Buster Keaton's new picture, "The Caricatured Lover." Nils will play the same role he had in Marion Davies' version of the play. This Swedish actor has had one of the champion bad breaks in Hollywood. Almost a star in the silent films, he did a complete fadeout in the talkies. But Irving Thalberg insists he can come back, and Irving is seldom wrong.

DID YOU KNOW
That Lil Dagover's real name is Lilith Witt and that she was born in Java, Dutch Indies? Her father was a German and her mother of French Huguenot descent.

WHAT ABOUT FURNITURE PRICES?
According to a bulletin from the office of the editor of one of the largest trade journals, sent to a selected few dealers (and we're just real glad to say that we belong to that "elite" group), we learn that a questionnaire was sent to about 700 manufacturers of furniture stores, and rugs, asking their opinion about the possibility of a price change.

The answers to these questionnaires disclosed the fact that 93 per cent saw no possibility of further reductions in the prices of their products. About one-third of them (35%) to be exact, believe that, in the very near future, the price trend would be upward. Of the 700 manufacturers only 49 (7%) thought that prices would go lower. However, about 600 were of the opinion that the trend would be upward.

Since reading that bulletin, we've been wondering if it would not be a good idea for folks to lay in a new supply of home furnishings—furniture, stoves, and rugs. It seems to be the consensus of opinion of those who should know that the bottom has been reached in our line of merchandise. That being true, we'd suggest that you could find no better time than the present to re-furnish that room that you've been hoping to "fix up." Do it now—don't wait until prices take a hike and then belong to that large class of weepers—"The I-Wish-I-Had Club."

When the old Adams Express Company made deliveries in Roundtown with trucks it cost them 10¢ per box and every year for years leading to two "houses." Right now we are offering a bed-spring that formerly cost $21.50 for as little as $18.75 and it carries a guarantee of 10 years. The sturdy human beings are entitled to a more costly bed than common day houses, yet many folks hesitate to pay a

In Huntington, Carper parked the automobile and crossed the street to talk to a man who, he told his friend, on returning to the car, was his father.

When Hunt was questioned by Fairfield-co officers, his description of the man seen in Huntington did not tally with that of Mr. Carper. Most damaging to young Carper's first story, however, was Hunt's testimony regarding the date of the trip. The Carper youth had said they left for Huntington on July 29th; Hunt's story fixed the date a week later Aug. 5th, the day after the murder. Hunt did not remember the exact date, but knew it was the day threshing was to start at his father's farm. Hunt's father did not remember either, but after painstaking effort, Sheriff Sessler got in touch with the man who owned the threshing machine and he verified the date conclusively.

DESERVE CREDIT

Sheriff Sessler, Deputy Belhorn and Prosecutor Cunningham deserve great credit for their tireless efforts to solve this murder mystery which occurred in Fairfield county, although all those involved are Ross County residents.

Prosecutor Cunningham said this afternoon he would file first degree murder charge against young Carper in view of the signed confession. It is probable that the youth will plead self-defense, as he says in his confession that his father intended to kill him. He also says that his father ill-treated the rest of the family, once striking the oldest son on the head with such force that he was confined to the hospital for several days on account of the blow.

This older son, Golden Carper, and a son-in-law of the deceased, William Lewis Day, who were arrested at the same time as the younger son, were released today after the confession had been made.

HUNT KIDNAPPERS OF POST MASTER

GLOUSTER, O., Oct. 20.—After an all-day relentless search, authorities were without trace today of the five bandits who kidnaped H. F. Hampbel, local postmaster, Sunday and forced him to accompany them to the post office and open the safe which they looted of between $400 and $500 in currency and stamps and escaped.

MAN ELECTROCUTED FOR THREE DEATHS

CHESTER, Ill., Oct. 20.—"So long boys." These were the final words of the first person ever to be electrocuted at Chester penitentiary. Early today Murley Johnson, 25, of Mattoon, Ill., confessed murderer of a woman and her two children died in the electric chair. Johnson, who was convicted July 3, 1931, of killing Mrs. Carrie Bowers, and her two children, Delmar and Joe, continued his defiant attitude to the very last minute.

OHIO NEWSPAPERS SELECT SIDDALL

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 20.—Paul C. Siddall of the Alliance Review again headed the Ohio Select List of Dailies today, following his reelection to the post at the closing session of the newspaper publishers' meeting here yesterday.

Roy D. Moore of Canton, of the Brush-Moore newspapers, was continued in the office of vice president and C. H. Spencer of the Newark Advocate was renamed secretary-treasurer by the board of directors.

J. E. Hurst of New Philadelphia, E. C. Dix of the Wooster Record, R. C. Snyder of Sandusky, Fordon C. Bush of Athens and Mr. Moore were named directors of the publishers' group.

Sixty-five delegates from 55 Ohio newspapers took part in a round table discussion of the problems of newspaper publishing in the afternoon session.

BEHIND the SCENE In HOLLYWOOD

By HARRISON CARROL

HOLLYWOOD, Cal.—Motion pictures and the stock market have made Rod La Rocque a rich man. Today, in semi-retirement, he devotes his time to scientific work.

Rod is no dilettante, either. The famous Dr. Robert Millikan is his good friend. Many distinguished men of science are guests at his home.

Right now Rod is building a telescope for Conrad Nagel's little daughter, Ruth. Within the last six days he has spent 84 hours and 2 minutes grinding the speculum, which will magnify 192 times. Before the instrument is finished, an ordinary Ford axle will be put to use in some mysterious fashion.

This is the fourth telescope Rod has made. One similar to his present model is set up at his mountain cabin.

The mechanics of photography are another hobby of Rod's. He builds cameras as handily as the average man changes film.

Vilma Banky, now completely resigned to retirement from pictures, helps in the laboratory. She is an expert at handling a wood-lathe.

It is rather remarkable that Rod has educated himself in science. In his boyhood, lack of money prevented him even from finishing high school.

Would he like to go back into pictures? Perhaps. But in the meanwhile, he has his hobby to rescue him from boredom.

WHAT ABOUT FURNITURE PRICES?

According to a bulletin from the office of the editor of one of the largest trade journals, sent to a selected few dealers (and we're just real glad to say that we belong to that "elite" group), we learn that a questionnaire was sent to about 700 manufacturers of furniture, stoves, and rugs, asking their opinion about the possibility of a price change.

About one-third of them (35%) do believe that, in the very near future, the price trend would be upward. Of the 700 manufacturers only 49 (7%) thought that prices would go lower. However, about 650 were of the opinion that the trend would be upward.

Since reading that bulletin, we've been wondering if it would not be a good idea for folks to lay in a new supply of house furnishings—furniture, stoves, and rugs. It seems to be the consensus of opinion of those who should know that the bottom has been reached in our line of merchandise. That being true, we'd suggest that you could find no better time than the present to refurbish that room that you've been hoping to "fix up." Do it now—don't wait until prices take a hike and then belong to that large club of weepers—"The I-Wish-I-Had Club."

When the old Adams Express Company made deliveries in Roundtown with horses, it cost them $18.00 each and every year for straw bedding for two "horses." Right now we are offering a bed spring that formerly sold for $21.50 for as little as $18.75 and it carries a guarantee of 20 years, too. Surely, human beings are entitled to a more costly bed than common dray horses, yet many folks hesitate to pay a decent price of a bed-spring. Unlike the straw, springs and mattresses will last for years and years, yet cost no more. Treat yourself to a good night's rest.

This has not yet happened, but it may—Chief of Police Warner: "I'll put you on touring duty with Officer McManamy. The police car is equipped with radio, now."

New Rookie: "Gee, that's might nice of you, Chief, I like music."

When a rug pad that sells for as little as $3.85, for 9x12 size is moth-proof, forms a cushion for the rug, adds years of life to a rug, and makes a rug easier for walking and cleaning, it seems foolish for folks to do without one of them. This is a new low price on rug pads and is due to a new shipment of another brand that has been received.

Another family has ordered a PYROFAX GAS OUTFIT. They have been using kerosene for cooking and baking but their old stove began to leak and cause them more or less trouble. The folks were afraid that a fire would start from the coal-oil that leaked on the floor. Now that they will have GAS for cooking they will need have no fear of burning the house down. It was on Saturday a week ago that the husband came into our store to look at a kerosene range. We talked him out of that notion and sold him a Pyrofax outfit.

We'll make delivery in a few days and then we'll have another booster for this convenient method of cooking and baking for country folks.

Jenny Lind must have been some prominent old girl, judging from the many pieces of furniture that bear her name. Just last Friday we received a beautiful "Jenny Lind" day-bed, in walnut finish, and upholstered in a mighty good looking cover. It is good enough to grace any one's home, yet so low-priced that the average family can afford it.

Dr. Hosler of Ashville, dining at the Country Club: "Waiter this spinach is terrible."

Waiter: "Sorry, sir, you'll have to take it up with Charley Gilmore, chairman of the greens committee."

Who would ask for anything sweeter than to have a price reduction on heating appliances at the opening of the winter season? Well, sir, that is just exactly what has happened right here in this store. We're offering a genuine Estate Heatrola, the same number that was sold last fall for $119.50, for only $93.50. And then there's a smaller one for only $65.00. It sold last fall for $89.50. Can you afford to purchase at imitation when you can get a genuine Heatrola—the one that warms the floor and saves fuel for so little? Remember these prices are good only until the present stock is exhausted.

We've neglected our manners in not thanking our many friends for the flowers that were handed us during the recent Pumpkin Show. Especially do we wish to thank Mrs. Milton Beatty for those wonderful dahlias.

Those end tables and midge radio tables that we're selling at $1.35 are moving right out. A certain man told us that he paid $2.25 for one that wasn't one bit better. So, we're convinced that they are real values.

Last fall they sold for $116.00; last month the price was $92.50; right now, until the present stock is sold out, we'll sell a fully enameled Estate Gas Range, in enamel oven, with ThermEstate oven control, for only $73.75.
